NEW BEAM HOUSE

Plans for Building Explained to Board of Health

Six Petitions Before the Board of Health, Objecting to Location of Building in Perry Street—Engineer Stehling Says That Proposed Plant Will be Odorless

C. P. Hall, fourth vice president of the American Hide & Leather company, and Charles H. Stehling of Stehling Co., designers and builders of tanneries and tanners' machinery, came to Lowell this forenoon and met the board of health. The meeting had to do with the establishment of a beam house in the vicinity of Perry street, and the board of health is to decide whether or not to allow the company to build a beam house in Perry street, and the board has decided to visit a beam house in Milwaukee before giving its decision.

There are at least six petitions before the board of health objecting to the erection of a beam house in Perry street. Hearings on these petitions will be given in the near future and the plans explained to the board today will be explained to the petitioners.

The company's plan for a new building is nothing if not comprehensive so far as everything, except the smell, is concerned, and it can be said in all truth that had the company taken the advice of its Mr. Hall in 1904 it would have established its beam plant on its ground upon which the present plans have been prepared. He advised the company to build a beam house on land owned by the company and in direct connection with the main factory.

There are a good many things connected with the beam house plans that are very commendable. The receiving and the shipping doors will open on the railroad tracks and there will be no carting of goods through the factory or through the streets. The building will be 300 feet long and 34 feet high at the highest point. It will be 120 feet wide at one end and 117 at the other. All the walls will be of concrete and Mr. Hall said today that the primary object was to minimize the production of odors, and he believed that constant flushing would do the trick.

Engineer Stehling, six months ago, agreed with the board of health, in its opinion that the beam house in Howe street was a nuisance. He said today that it was a nuisance, and today that statement he added: "If a beam house is erected here according to the plans that are before us, Lowell will have the best beam house in America. It will be absolutely sanitary and odorless."

First—The building will be of steel and cement. It is held that wood retains the odor of the beaming process and that is why wood is eliminated.

Second—There will be constant flushing into a sewer that will be large enough to take care of anything that goes its way.

Third—There will be fans and vents that will take care of whatever remains of the foul smell and that the air will be pure when it reaches the roof or the natural outlet.

Fourth—The building will be in Perry street, about 300 yards from the nearest residence, on the railroad tracks and on the bank of the Concord river.

Fifth—The plant in Howe street is to be abandoned for all time, and if the new plant in Perry street is ofensive then it will be up to the board of health to condemn it as a nuisance.

That is, in substance, one side of the story, but there are two sides to every story. Persons living in the vicinity of Perry street object even to the odors that come from the company's main plant, to say nothing of the beam

STRIKE OF MINERS

Over 4200 Coal Miners Deserted the Mines of Operators' Association

Great Destruction of Property Feared—The Operators Say Grant of Miners' Demand Will Increase Price of Coal—President Taft to be Appealed to as Was Roosevelt in Great Anthracite Strike

CHICAGO, June 4.—Destruction of a great deal of mine property, the owners declare, will follow in the wake of the order issued by the officers of the United Mine Workers of Illinois, calling out on a strike all engineers, firemen, pumpmen and emergency workers.

More than 4200 men deserted the mines and by midnight practically every mine in the state operated by members of the Illinois Coal Operators' association was left unprotected against water and other agents of destruction. When the engineers and other workers walked out of the mines the operators immediately instructed their mine managers and superintendents to man the pumps. The operators declared they feared the men would be driven away from the mines the moment any work is attempted. In the event of trouble of this kind the operators will apply for a federal injunction against the miners, and an appeal may be made to President Taft to intervene in the same manner President Roosevelt did in the anthracite coal strike. One of the principal demands of the miners is that the operators pay the wages of shot-firers. The operators declare if they were forced to pay wages of shot-firers it would mean an increase in the price of coal at least three cents a ton. About 600 shot-firers are employed at $4.50 a day.

WAS RELEASED ON BAIL

Fred Harrington, president of the Gladstone Athletic club, which has conducted a number of boxing exhibitions in Associate hall and at Washington park during the past several months, was arrested shortly before noon today by Inspector John Walsh on a complaint charging him with promoting a public boxing exhibition.

The complaint was made by Sgt. Raymond Welch, and it is said that the complaint is based upon the three exhibitions which were recently held at Washington park.

Harrington was released shortly after his arrest, bail being set at $300, and he will appear in police court on Monday morning to answer to the complaint.

INSPECTOR GOODWIN

Was Retired on a Pension by the Police Board Today

The board of police met in special session this morning and the meeting was an important one in several ways. It marked the close of the term of office of Chairman F. K. Stearns, and it was the first meeting that Commissioner Charles H. Hanson was present at for several weeks, owing to the fact that he has been traveling in the west. During the course of the meeting several important matters were transacted among them being the transfer of Inspector Frank Goodwin to the pension roll.

eral important matters were transacted among them being the transfer of Inspector Frank Goodwin to the pension roll.

Chairman Stearns Retires

Contrary to expectations, Chairman Frank K. Stearns did not make any formal statement when he left the meeting about 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. After he bid good-bye to Commissioners Boulger and Hanson and Clerk Flaherty and Inspector Fox, who has been acting as assistant to Mr. Flaherty, Mr. Stearns approached the newspapermen and thanked them for the manner in which they had treated him during his term of office.

When asked if he intended to make any statement relative to what had been done by the police board during the time he was chairman or relative to any changes or improvements that he would suggest, he said that in the annual report of the board of police he has a statement, which he considered his farewell statement, but he did not want to make it public until it had been submitted to the mayor.

Mr. Stearns was appointed chairman of the board of police on Tuesday, December 17, 1907, by Frederick Farnham, who was then mayor. Prior to the appointment the board was composed of Joseph Jennings, chairman, and John W. McEvoy and Fred N. Wier. Charges were preferred against Messrs. Jennings and McEvoy and at the conclusion of a hearing which was given them by the board, Messrs. Thomas P. Boulger and Charles H. Hanson were appointed to succeed them. Mr. Wier then resigned and Mr. Stearns was appointed in his place. Monday, Mr. John J. Mulhoney, who was recently appointed chairman of the board by Mayor Meehan, will take charge.

Commissioner Hanson Returns

Commissioner Charles H. Hanson, who has been in the west for several weeks for his health and incidentally to transact some business, was given a cordial welcome when he put in an appearance at ten o'clock this morning. Mr. Hanson returned to Lowell, Thursday, and in conversation with a representative of The Sun stated that he had had a most delightful trip and was much improved in health.

Inspector Goodwin Pensioned

The principal business of the meeting was the transferring of Inspector Frank Goodwin to the pension roll. Inspector Goodwin was born in Newport, N. H., on May 11, 1845, and became a member of the department in March, 1872. In 1879 he was promoted to the rank of sergeant and on June 7, 1884, was appointed inspector and has held that position ever since. He served for several years on the liquor squad, but of late had been known as the warrant officer and also performed service in the criminal session of the police court.

BODY RECOVERED

A Pitiable Scene on Banks of the Concord River

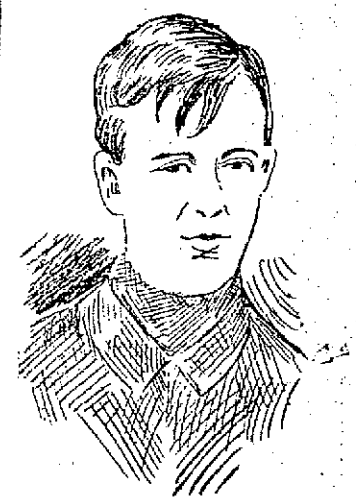

The body of Charles Corr, the Rindge Manual Training school athlete who was drowned in the Concord river last evening, was recovered shortly after five o'clock this morning by Chief of Police Martin Conway of North Billerica and Undertaker John J. O'Connell of this city who dragged the river all night with grappling irons.

The father of the dead boy was present along the river bank throughout the night watching the attempt to recover the body and his grief was most pitiable. The elder Corr has been employed for many years at Harvard college, a man with limited education himself, whose one ambition in life was to see his boy Charlie, the oldest of eight children, pass through the gates of Harvard as a student.

The boy was about to graduate from the Rindge school, not only as one of its foremost athletes but as one of its leading scholars and he had passed the entrance examinations to Harvard and in the fall would have entered the college without any conditions attached to his entrance. Thus as the father's fondest hopes were about to be realized death intervened and cut down the promising boy in the blossom of youth.

The body was recovered at Mayberry's bridge and was taken to the warerooms of Undertaker O'Connell in this city to await a view by the med-

BIG AUTO EVENT THE INSURGENTS

Annual Hill Climbing Contest Held at Worcester Today Have Put the Nicaraguan Troops to Flight

WORCESTER, June 4.—Prepared to overcome by utmost speed the steep graded obstacle which has given Dead Horse hill its significant name, the drivers of more than half a hundred automobiles of varying types and high speeds awaited at the foot of the hill today the start of the Worcester Automobile club's fifth annual hill climb.

The event being the only large automobile contest for New England this year, and one of the four hill climbing events which the automobile manufacturers of the country are supporting, gave it greater interest than usual. In fact, except for the Wilkesbarre, Pa. climb last week, the Dead Horse hill event is the country's greatest. An entry list of nearly three score cars for today's racing ascent of the mile of vari-graded hill road was, perhaps, the largest which has ever entered a contest of this kind in America.

Although the record holder of the course, L. P. Baldwin of Providence, who, in a Stanley steamer, reached the top last year in 54 seconds, was not a competitor today, it was expected that several of the drivers at least would be able to force their cars over the hill mile at a rate considerably better than a mile a minute. It was known before the race started that several of the drivers in secret practice had made this time.

The car that Baldwin used was sent up the hill today in charge of Fred H. Marple, the former straightaway speed king.

Other prominent drivers competing in the event included Harry K. Grant, in the Alco car in which he won the last Vanderbilt cup race; Caleb Briggs, the Cincinnati amateur, who recently defeated Barney Oldfield at the wheel of a Fiat; Stanley North, driving a Mount-Rockwell, the biggest car which has ever competed on the hill, and Robert Hurman in a Buick.

The course today was in fine condition. Finishing touches to the week's work of surfacing were made during the forenoon, the hill being closed until 1.30 o'clock, the scheduled time of the country's start.

Dead Horse hill is one-quarter of a mile long and three-quarters in length. Its steepest grade is about 15 per cent. The hill is nearly straight for the full mile, allowing a clear sprint, but it is so narrow that only one car can ascend at a time. The total rise is about 550 feet.

BLUEFIELDS, Nicaragua, June 4.—Advices received here state that the insurgent forces under General Menéndez have defeated and put to flight the government troops commanded by General Chavarría.

Following the withdrawal of the Matriz forces from the immediate vicinity of this city, Gen. Chamorro, with 100 men was dispatched to reinforce Gen. Menéndez. Gen. Chamorro arrived at Rama Thursday morning and Gen. Menéndez at once sent a messenger to the government headquarters in the field, offering Chavarría 12 hours in which to surrender or fight. The reply was a dash from the fortified position on a hill close to Rama with the object, it is said, of escaping to the interior.

When Menéndez learned that the enemy was escaping he sent Gen. Recreo with a strong force to cut off its retreat. An engagement followed and continued for three hours, when the troops of President Madrid became thoroughly demoralized and fled in every direction, leaving their dead and wounded on the field.

On Thursday evening, Thomas F. Moffat, the American consul, issued a proclamation declaring that vessels entering the port of Bluefields must pay customs duties to the government headed by Gen. Estrada, the revolutionary leader. Subsequently, the schooner Caye entered the harbor and was not interfered with by the government officials, who are in possession of the custom house on Bluefields bluff.

The action of the United States in refusing to recognize the revolutionary government has been received with enthusiasm and is considered a great victory for Gen. Estrada. Its effect is to rob the government of the fruits of its capture of Bluefields bluff and the custom house.

The American decision also destroys the effectiveness of the government's steamer Venus, which is lying off Bluefields.

It is believed that Gen. Menéndez has by this time surrounded and captured Chavarría's army.

The rivalry between the two schools is as keen as ever and a close contest is expected. Although the record of the preliminary season favors Andover, Exeter has shown consistent improvement throughout the season, while Andover's worst showing was made in the last game played when Harvard overwhelmed her last Saturday.

THREE INQUESTS WERE HELD BY JUDGE McDONOUGH

FALL RIVER, June 4.—Judge John J. McDonough held three inquests yesterday.

He finds that Louis Bernard of this city came to his death on March 12, 1910, by being struck by a locomotive while unlawfully trespassing on the tracks of the N. Y. & N. H. railroad.

In the case of Maria J. Corrallo, 4 years of age, who came to her death as a result of being struck and being run over by an Old Colony street car, Judge McDonough found the city guilty of gross negligence. Gray was arraigned in the district court yesterday on a charge of manslaughter in causing the death of Corrallo and was found not guilty, the evidence against the motorist being considered insufficient to sustain the charge.

CHILD BURNED HER CONDITION IS REGARDED AS SERIOUS

BOSTON, June 4.—If little Catherine Collins, the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Collins of 223 Saratoga street, East Boston, survives the very serious burning she received yesterday afternoon, she will owe her life to the energy and promptness of Dr. J. H. Strong, a neighbor.

Jeremiah Collins, a day laborer, and Mrs. Collins were both away from home at work, and Catherine was playing out in the back yard with one of her little brothers. It is supposed that they must have been amusing themselves by lighting a fire of paper and small sticks, for in some way the clothes of the girl were ignited by the flames.

TEXTILE SCHOOL

Rev. Dr. Hamilton's Address at Yesterday's Exercises

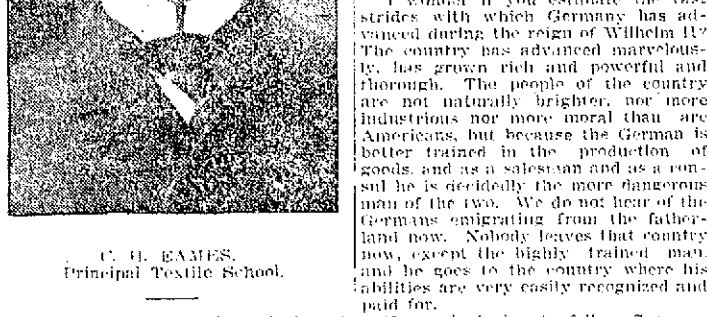

Alexander W. Hamilton, D. D., LL. D., president of Tufts college, was the principal speaker at the Textile school commencement exercises yesterday and his address was omitted in The Sun's report of the proceedings.

Dr. Hamilton's Address

Dr. Hamilton gave a brilliant address, one of the kind that furnishes food for future reflection. In part he said:

"I wish to congratulate you on the record you have attained during the past year, and on the record as a school you have made in past years. And it is in my mind to say that your record is very remarkable, but I am not going to say that, for it is not remarkable. Because of the school you have and the Industrial efficiency. You want to be useful members of society, that society into which you are born, must live and to which you must make your contribution. This world doesn't owe anybody anything, except a fair return for what has been put into it. Now every boy and girl must be taught these things for the ordinary intelligent intercourse of life. No man can live well with his fellows unless he can exchange ideas with them. There are a large number of educational opportunities offered. You have here a school where you learn to do one group of things; that is the contribution to society of this school. And there is plenty of room for other schools which will fit men and women for other walks of life.

C. H. EAMES, Principal Textile School.

excellent facilities you have it is not remarkable. What such a school, as this does cannot be called remarkable. "We are all interested together in the problems of education. The question of the future of this republic must depend very largely on how the future citizens are trained. The future holds more in store for our young men than could possibly hold if you hadn't had this training. Conditions are so complex, developments are so far reaching, demands are so great, that we are constantly modifying and re-casting our system of education. Steps taken forward, and they are taken forward all of the time, cause readjustment.

Efficient Citizenship

"My second point concerns the capacity of the American for self government; the intellectual ability to understand clearly and to answer correctly. To be an efficient citizen of a great republic requires a great deal more of a man now than in the past. It is the inevitable that democracy—I refer not to the party designated in that manner—should be much more widespread in the future than it now is. The people have governed themselves by representatives, we are now in the midst of a revolution, and the outcome of this will be that the people will govern themselves directly. I am making a prophecy—I will not argue it. The people are going to make laws for themselves, for good or ill. Now the people of Boston do not propose that a mayor shall discharge them for four years; if they do not like him they will recall him in two. The agitation for a direct election of senators has taken shape and will bear its fruit some day. I don't know whether you know it or not but we surely are in the throes of a revolution in this country. American citizens if they are to come directly into contact with the working of this nation, must know something about the great questions of the day, and that will necessitate much of careful training along certain lines.

TENNIS CONTEST

Dr. Dwight Tells Attitude of English Team

YORK HARBOR, Me., June 4.—In an interview today on the controversy over the preliminary matches between England and America for the Davis lawn tennis cup, Dr. James Dwight, president of the United States National Lawn Tennis Association, explained the situation which he said had become somewhat complicated. Dr. Dwight said:

"Australia asked England and the United States to play the preliminaries in Australia. England refused to do this. Thereupon England asked us to play the preliminary in England. We agreed to do this. We should probably agree to the proposal. We found later that we could not do so. We did not think it proper and sportsmanlike to take the chance of winning in England and then forfeiting the challenge match to Australia which country holds the Davis trophy. We desired to be assured of following a winning of the preliminaries in England, if such it turned out, by sending a team to Australia. We have not yet seen our way to send a team to England with the assurance of an Australian journey. The length of time taken by the two journeys is such that very few if any of the men who desire to give up. However, we still hope to send a team to Australia."

THE RAILROAD BILL

Has Been Finally Passed by the United States Senate

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The senate passed the administration railroad bill at 9.55 o'clock last night. It had been under consideration for more than 12 weeks, and practically no other business except appropriation bills were considered in that long period. Only 12 votes, all of those by democrats, were recorded against the bill. The practical unanimity with which the measure was passed, was due to the radical changes made in the measure from the form in which it was drafted by Attorney General Wickham, after numerous conferences at the White House on the subject of amending interstate commerce laws. All of the "insurgents" who opposed many features of the original bill voted for it last night.

In the elimination of pooling and merger sections and the adoption of many amendments in the interest of shippers, the progressive republicans claimed to have won a signal victory and most of the democrats expressed themselves as favorable to the large portion of the measure.

Had it not been for the retention of the sections to create a court of commerce, it is likely that the vote for the bill would have been unanimous. Debate ceased at 9.55 o'clock when Senator Ekins, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, moved to take up the bill which was passed by the house and after striking out the body of that measure to substitute the matter agreed upon by the senate. In that form the bill was voted upon with the result that it was passed by a vote of 50 to 12.

No republican voted against the bill and six democrats voted for it. They were Messrs. Chamberlain, Clay, Gore, Paynter, Simmons and Stone.

Just before the voting began, Sen. La Follette, one of the "insurgent" republican leaders, served notice upon the senate that unless the senate conferees made a determined fight for retention amendments proposed by progressive republicans and democrats, it could not hope to approve the conference report. Speeches in explanation of their votes were made by Senators Bacon, La Follette, Dooliver, Paynter, Clay, Simmons and Gore and brief remarks were made by others.

The new law will take effect 90 days from the date approved by the president.

The salient features of the railroad bill as it passed the senate may be described as follows:

The bill provides for the creation of a new court of commerce for the consideration exclusively of appeals from orders of the interstate commerce commission. The court is to consist of five judges, to sit in Washington; their powers are to be co-ordinate with the judges of the federal circuit court, to receive the same pay and emoluments and are to be appointed in the first instance by the president for terms respectively of one, two, three, four and five years. Each as he retires to take up the work of a circuit bench, these and other vacancies to be filled by appointment by the chief justice of the supreme court.

The long and short haul provision of the present interstate commerce law would be amended so as to permit a greater charge for a short haul than for a long haul, only with the consent of the interstate commerce commission. Special provision is made against a lower rate being fixed for the purpose of destroying water competition.

Railroad companies are required to furnish written statements of rates from one place to another upon the written application of a shipper. Rates reduced to meet water competition, must not be restored until after a hearing by the commission to determine whether the conditions have changed otherwise than by the elimination of the water competition. Unless set aside by a competent court orders of the commission are to continue in force for two years. The commission also is given authority to investigate the propriety of any new rate, regulation or classification, individual or joint, of any common carrier, and pending such hearing a suspension for 10 months of the rate, classification or regulation is provided for. The carrier is required to refund all charges found to be excessive.

Authority is also given the commission to establish rates and joint classification or to prescribe maximum rates over the same, whenever the carriers themselves neglect to do so. This regulation also covers water lines which are connecting carriers.

Shippers are given the right to designate a through route or part of a route over which their property shall be carried. A penalty of $5000 is imposed upon carriers for disclosing any information concerning shipments.

Telegraph and telephone lines are placed under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission. The commission is authorized to determine the reasonableness of rates and a penalty is imposed of from $100 to $2000 against granting franchises or passes for transmission of messages. Special night and press report rates are authorized.

The only provision in the bill applicable to other than railroad corporations is the one regulating injunctions by the federal courts which suspend the operation of state laws. It is provided that such action shall be taken only when presented to a justice of the supreme court or a circuit judge and heard by three judges, one of whom shall be a supreme court justice, or a circuit court judge.

RAILROAD MEN

To Make an Appeal to President Taft

CHICAGO, June 4.—A direct appeal to President Taft is to be made next Monday by representatives of the Western trunk line association and the 25 western railroads that are restrained from increasing freight rates.

At a secret meeting of the railroad officials this plan was suggested and adopted upon the theory that the president is not fully informed as to the situation.

The railroads have begun to retrench all round without awaiting a court decision on the issue. Equipment orders are being canceled, improvements curtailed and employees discharged in the face of talk of a record crop in wheat and cotton.

According to a dispatch from Detroit last night details of the conference on Monday have been left to the railroad men and government officials at Washington.

In granting the conference Mr. Taft followed his rule of giving a hearing to all parties to a controversy.

Pres. Riddle of the Alchison & Santa Fe last night said: "We are cutting down our force of employees to as large a degree as we can safely afford. All current expenses are being reduced as far as possible."

P. A. Delano of the Wabash, said: "Extensive improvements on our system, which we have been contemplating for some time, have been abandoned because of the action which has been taken by the interstate commerce body. The present condition will continue until the issue now the subject of contention is settled."

Pres. Earling of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, has gone to New York for the purpose, it is said, of investigating the proposed budget for the coming fiscal year, with a view to reducing it as far as possible.

Sec. Glenn of the Illinois manufacturers' association said yesterday: "The advance in rates, as proposed by the railroad companies, is simply a conspiracy on the part of the railroads to make the shipper pay the interest on $200,000,000 worth of stock which has been issued since 1906 and which, according to authentic information, never was paid for."

Mr. Glenn also challenged George Gould to show that the latter owned more than 3 per cent. of the stock in the Wabash and Missouri Pacific railroads.

SENT TO PRISON

Prominent Worcester Man Found Guilty

WORCESTER, June 4.—Judson W. Hall, aged 74, a real estate dealer living at 19 Chandler street, and considered one of Worcester's wealthy citizens, was found guilty in connection with the Worcester girl cases in the superior criminal court yesterday, and was sentenced to serve not less than 10 nor more than eight years in the state prison at Charlestown, one day in solitary confinement.

Trial in the case occupied two days, but it took the jury only 34 minutes to render a verdict of guilty, whereupon Judge Robert F. Raymond of Newton sentenced Hall.

The girls of whom there were six, were all under the age of 16, and Judge Raymond instructed the jury that it must consider each case separately.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty in each case, and Dist. Atty. George S. Taft then moved for sentence on only one of the two indictments against Hall.

Adolphus Brads and Adolphus Blanchette, each about 16 years of age, had previously pleaded guilty to misconduct with the girls involved in the case. Owing to their youth they were committed to the Concord reformatory.

The girls are Kate Doyle, Isabel Hill, Orley Blanchard, Agnes Blanchard, Mildred Amelotte and Elizabeth Fontaine.

The greater part of the session today was taken up by the defense. Hall took the stand in his own behalf, and while he admitted that the girls had made frequent visits to his home on Chandler street and that he gave them money he denied strenuously that he was guilty of any improper conduct. In explanation of his having the girls come to the house he said he was preparing to write a series of articles for one of the Worcester papers in which he was a frequent contributor, on the actions of the so-called "fifty molasses" and he had the girls come to the house to make research so he could discuss the question with first-hand knowledge.

SPEAKER CANNON

Was Roundly Denounced By Rep. Murdock

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 4.—Representative Murdock of Kansas retorted to Speaker Cannon's recent assertion that shooting was too good for the insurgent republicans and that they ought to be hanged as traitors to their party, with a counter-charge last night that the speaker has for years been playing in the dark with Tammany hall. Representative Murdock, who is in the forefront of insurgency, was speaking here last night at a mass meeting held within the shadow of Senator Keane's house to boom the senator's rival, Representative Fowler of this state, for the senator's place when his term expires. In discussing the speaker's recent speech at a banquet in New York, Representative Murdock said, in part:

"For 18 years Speaker Cannon has covered his delinquencies by cunning. He has played in the dark with Tammany. Every heart throb of his is in response to the impulses of an aristocrat. He has blocked the way to light and liberty and he is the anomaly in the history of the democracy."

THE LOWELL SUN

JOHN H. HARRINGTON, Proprietor

SUN BUILDING, MERRIMACK SQUARE, LOWELL, MASS.

Member of the Associated Press

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was 16,828

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

A SLOP-OVER PANEGYRIC

That was a very rampant panegyric that the Rev. John Haynes Holmes delivered at the funeral of the late ex-Mayor Hibbard of Boston. This eulogyman represented the deceased as killed by the treachery of his friends, "stabbed in the back" by the friends he had assisted and "rended by the famished dogs" who hungered for the public office he refused to offer. Now, this is all the most arrant nonsense and the author of such stuff "slopped over," as they say, very badly. It is plain to every sensible man that any man who enters the arena of politics must expect to meet reverses, and if he is not prepared to meet them like a man he should never enter politics. Hibbard was defeated as candidate for reelection under the new charter, and the small vote he received indicated that the number of his friends was very small. He was then nominated for collector by Mayor Fitzgerald but was rejected by the civil service commission. For that the friends of the mayor were not to blame. He was rejected, we believe, on the ground that his health was not good, and his death resulting so soon after the rejection proved the accuracy of that decision. He was a weak man politically as well as physically, and the fact that he died of tuberculosis would tend to show that the Rev. Mr. Holmes spoke with far too much positivity in regard to the real cause of death when he openly charged that Hibbard was killed by the treachery of his friends or from being stabbed in the back.

BOGUS MEDICAL DIPLOMAS

Medical societies and boards of health have succeeded in exposing certain bogus medical colleges in Chicago that existed apparently for the purpose of turning out medical diplomas to be distributed on fake examinations and the payment of a monetary consideration.

One of these diploma mills was conducted under the dual title of Chicago Medical University and the Crescent Medical University. The former furnished the graduate with a diploma as doctor of obstetrics while he waits, provided he pays the sum of $40, and the latter distributed diplomas certifying to ample qualification as a pharmacist for the sum of $30. The applicant in either case can take the course by mail so as to make things convenient for all concerned. One of those concerns was detected by the daughter of a physician from the south acting under his directions. By taking the lessons by mail she had no difficulty whatever in securing diplomas on payment of the $70 necessary, so that she now holds a diploma in obstetrics and also a diploma as a pharmacist, although knowing practically nothing of either subject.

It is difficult to estimate the number of such diplomas from these and other fake institutions throughout the country. There should be severe punishment provided for any concern detected in any such business as there is no telling how many lives may be sacrificed through having men with slight medical knowledge go out to practice upon an unsuspecting public. It is a crime that may result in the destruction of numerous lives and should, therefore, have a corresponding penalty.

TO ABOLISH MEMORIAL DAY

Some prominent officials of the Grand Army have expressed the wish that Memorial Day be abolished, claiming that it is not properly respected, that it is made a day of sport and observed more in the spirit of the Fourth of July than of a real Memorial day.

With all due respect to those who entertain such opinions, we believe they are entirely mistaken. Memorial day is observed more generally and more patriotically than it ever was at any previous time. The veterans should be satisfied with the very general decoration of the graves, the general suspension of business, the fact that the memorial exercises are attended by large numbers and that there is never any lack of respect or reverence towards the customs of the day. In fact the day is observed in this state by the general decoration of all graves where the deceased have any surviving friends.

It would be a serious mistake for the veterans to suppose that the young people should shut themselves up in their homes and that whole cities should put on the garb of mourning with the coming of Memorial day each year. It is quite a sufficient observance of the day if the memorial exercises are carried out with due reverence. That is all the veterans can expect.

On Memorial day the sacrifices of the heroes of the Civil war are extolled and the surviving veterans are honored as heroes who risked their lives to save the Union. The cities appropriate money freely for the observance of the day and not only extol the memory of the veterans who have passed away but also honor the survivors of the great conflict who are soon to follow. In such an observance there is enough to show what the patriots have done; there is enough to teach the rising generation impressive lessons of patriotism so that if duty calls in their day they will readily follow the example of the veterans and sacrifice their lives if necessary for the flag. But after the young people have participated in the memorial exercises why should they or even some of the old people be deprived of harmless recreation? Why object to a ball game, to track meets, to cricket games, that do not interfere in any way with the observance of the day?

We are confident that when the last of the veterans of the Civil war shall have passed away the people who are now reproached with lack of reverence on Memorial day will observe the day with as much fervor and as much respect for the memory of the soldier dead as do the surviving veterans today. It is no indication at all of a lack of patriotism that young men will play ball or engage in Marathon runs on Memorial day. We are afraid that the veterans either expect too much unnecessary sacrifices from the youth of the land or else are too sensitive on such matters. They are assuredly mistaken if they think that either with the old or the young there is any lack of appreciation of the inestimable sacrifices of the patriots who served in the Civil war.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

With today's performances the current season at the Opera House will be brought to a close and the theatre will be closed for the summer reopening early in August. Four performances will be given today starting at 1:30, 3, 7 and 9:30. The Vitaphone picture of King Edward's funeral is proving a picture of more than usual interest and many visit the theatre for the second time to see this really wonderful reproduction of the remarkable gathering of the rulers of the world. The picture will be shown at each performance today as well as the remainder of the excellent program being offered this week. Prices at the Opera House are five and ten cents.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Today at the Academy of Music the performance will run continuously from 2 to 10 p. m., and every act and picture is a feature of this fine playhouse. Heading the vaudeville are Kelly and Reno, an acrobatic act that is very amusing. Jack Dempsey, the tramp dancer, is a wonder with his feet, and he makes a big hit with the crowds. Claudia Bessette is singing the latest songs in her pleasing manner, and views of the different countries are shown. Continuous show tomorrow, 5 and 10 cents.

EMPIRE THEATRE

Today is the last time the show now playing at the Empire Theatre can be seen. Victor Shaker, the boy ventriloquist, still brings repeated applause with his astonishing feats. Massey and Kramer in their little playlet "Rube Opera" are good, especially the clariest playing of Mr. Massey. Sunday there will be given the usual concert. The program of moving pictures has been selected for Sunday only as have also the illustrated songs. The songs will be sung by Mr. Charles Rogers and Miss May Whiteley.

THEATRE VOYONS

The attendance at King Edward's funeral of the crowned heads of Europe adds greatly to the interest of the pictures shown today at the Theatre Voyons, for two excellent views can be had of the entire party of notable mourners. The present king of England, William of Germany, Alfonso of Spain and many others can easily be recognized in the pictures. The military display at the funeral is given full attention in the pictures and without a doubt they are the most important and new pictures ever shown. The musical features of the program, including solos by Miss Ida Wilson of the Boston Opera company and duets by James and Lillian Bates, are exceptionally good. Tomorrow the usual good Sunday concert will be given, commencing at one in the afternoon.

LOST HIS LIFE

Chas. Corr, Young Athlete, Drowned in the Concord River

Disappeared While Swimming at Billerica Last Evening — Was a Popular Student of Rindge Manual Training School of Cambridge

Charles J. Corr, aged 18, captain of the Rindge Manual Training school crew of Cambridge, and otherwise prominently identified with the athletics of the school, was drowned in the Concord river last night while sporting with his fellow oarsmen. The body had not been recovered last night.

Within a week or so he was to have received his diploma from the school, and, according to Superintendent Wood, he was to have been graduated as one of the leading men in his class. The young man was drowned while in swimming. Together with other members of his crew he was enjoying himself at about 6 o'clock in the Concord river at Billerica.

A boat was in use to dive from, and, according to a diver, the young man was not a strong swimmer, was holding to the side of the boat. For some time he was seen to disappear below the surface of the river and his hands slipped from the boat. It was thought that he was swimming under water and would soon appear, as the boat was not far from the shore and it was not felt that there was any danger.

The other boys watched to see him rise to the surface. Three minutes passed and then they began to be frightened. Several of the boys, including Edwin Tuttle, who was acting as host to the crew, dived deep into the water in hope of locating the young athlete.

Their efforts proved futile and several men made unsuccessful attempts to locate the boy or his body. It was apparent that the young man must be drowned. The bank of the river was lined with people who had been attracted by the news of the drowning. Boats were launched and men and boys kept diving into the water to locate the boy.

Henry T. Wheeler to locate the boy, but their efforts failed.

A message was sent to the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Corr, Maynard place, Mt. Auburn district, Cambridge, and they left for Billerica. Superintendent Wood of the Training school was also notified.

The boys had taken part on Thursday in a race, with the crews of the Cambridge Latin, Brookline High and Noble and Greenough schools. They attended school yesterday and immediately after the session went to Billerica to the summer camp of Dr. Tuttle, as the guest of Edwin Tuttle, who is the coxswain of the crew. All during the afternoon they sported about in the vicinity of the school camp.

Shortly before 6 o'clock a swim was proposed and nearly all the boys accepted the proposal and the water was soon well filled with boys. For some time they enjoyed themselves in this way leaping from the boat, up to the line they were thrown into a panic through the drowning of Corr.

Corr was born in Cambridge, and always lived there. He was graduated at the St. Paul's parochial school, and went from there to the Rindge Manual Training school. He proved a very capable student and although, during the first two years of his course, he did not take part in the athletics of the school, last year he went out as a football candidate and made the school team. He repeated this in the 1909-1910 team, playing tackle very creditably both years.

He was a member of the school crew last year and this year was elected captain, filling the office efficiently. He was one of the most popular boys in the school, and was a regular attendant at the St. Peter's Roman Catholic church, Concord avenue, Cambridge.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT

May Be Made Chairman of Arbitration Court

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt will be tendered the offer of the chairmanship of the international court of arbitration, now being jointly planned by the great powers, as soon as the president has had a chance to confer with him about the matter. His salary will be about $5000 a month.

The offer, it was stated yesterday by high diplomatic authority, will be made by the president personally, who will act as spokesman for the governments interested.

It is known positively that Germany, France, Italy and Japan have signified that Col. Roosevelt is their popular choice for the position. Russia and England are yet to be heard from.

In view of France's consent and her own acceptance of the Rooseveltian peace overtures in 1905, Russia's formal acceptance is taken as a matter of course. Diplomatic circles deny that his Guild hall speech about Egyptian affairs has alienated official British sympathy.

A statement made yesterday is that President Taft's good offices are not official, as the diplomatic details of the joint peace proposals will be worked out through the department of state. The president will act as a medium for the powers in making the request of Col. Roosevelt to head the arbitration court, because the foreign governments consider him close enough to Mr. Roosevelt to assure his consideration of the offer.

In view of the importance of the planned tribunal, whose cases will surpass in judicial importance those so far tried before any international court, foreign experts are engaged in figuring out the probable pro rata share for each government. They believe that the yearly cost of the court will be about $200,000, to be shared equally among the United States, England, France, Russia, Germany, Italy, Japan and Austria-Hungary. Nothing has yet been decided as to the share that Turkey, Holland and Belgium will have, although each of these countries will be allowed one judge.

ACCIDENT CASES
THAT WERE TREATED AT THE EMERGENCY HOSPITAL

Fred Panian, residing at 335 West Sixth street, while going home to dinner yesterday noon on his bicycle met with a painful accident.

When he reached a point on Bridge street near the corner of Third street he got into a position where he would have to strike a wagon or run into a boy. It is evident that he got excited at the predicament in which he found himself and those who witnessed the accident claim that he first struck the boy and later crashed into the wagon. He was taken to the Emergency hospital where it was found that his injuries were of a minor character.

Charles F. Smith of 16 Branch street, 43 years of age, got a piece of a twig in his left eye yesterday while wandering on the banks of the Concord river, and was unable to get it out with the assistance at hand. It was removed at the Emergency hospital.

William Delbert of 32 Broadway, 22 years of age, cut one of his fingers while at work in the Hamilton mills and had his wound dressed at the hospital.

Robert Cunliffe of 8 Rogers street, 26 years of age, slipped and fell while at work in the Mohr Plush company's mill, tearing the ligaments of his right knee. He was treated at the emergency hospital.

ANNUAL REPORT CHIEF KOHLER

Of Board of Charities Ordered a Watch on Not Signed City Officials

The board of charities met last night and attended to a raft of routine business.

At a previous meeting it was voted to instruct the clerk to communicate with last year's chairman and ask her for last year's report with her signature and also to ask Mr. Mayberry for his signature.

The report was prepared by Mr. Mayberry for under his direction last January.

Last night the clerk stated that he had the report but not the signatures desired.

The board voted to have the clerk communicate with Mr. Mayberry and ask him again for his signature or his reasons for not signing it.

Several bills for private work by district physicians were held up pending an investigation by Supt. Conley.

Another bill of $267.50 from Waymouth was held up. This bill should have come on last year's board, in fact the original did come in last year, so it was said, but it mysteriously disappeared and the bill which was presented last night was its duplicate.

There was some discussion about its appearance at this time and finally it was voted to have Supt. Conley further investigate the case.

When a bill which dated back to 1904 came up Chairman McCarthy took occasion to remark that it was one instance of many where the board cannot tell what to reckon on in advance.

While before the appropriation committee recently the chairman informed the members of the committee that he could not tell definitely and the above instance explained in a way why he could not.

On motion of Commissioner Burns it was voted to expend the sum of $64 for medical equipment for the two ambulances.

The cash allowance list was looked over and found to be $2.25 less than last month.

SACRED HEART

PATRONAL FEAST BY L'ASSOCIATION CATHOLIQUE

In the afternoon the members will march to St. Joseph's church, where benediction and a special sermon will be given.

BIG CONVENTION

The state convention of the Artisans Canadien-Francois which is to be held in this city Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week will be preceded by a public reception to the delegates tomorrow night at eight o'clock at the C. M. A. C. hall.

At a closed Monday, the convention proper will open. Monday and Tuesday will be devoted wholly to business and it is expected that on Tuesday night the convention business may be wholly terminated. In case of the contrary, extra sessions will be called for Wednesday.

On Tuesday night all of the visiting delegates, 75 in number, will be entertained at the performance of "Chou-fleur" at St. Louis' hall. The party will occupy the entire two first rows of the house. Between the two acts of the operetta, President General Desaulniers of Montreal, who is present, will make a speech. St. Joseph's, Desaulniers being unable to be present, the next highest officer from Montreal will speak.

The Lowell delegates to the convention are Origene Desautels, for Branch St. Andre; J. Adair Gauthier for Branch St. Louis; Alfred L. Lefebvre for Branch St. Joseph; L. C. Gagnier for Branch Pawtucketville; and Jules Rochette for Branch St. Marie of St. Louis.

KILPATRICK CAPTAIN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 4.—The members of the Yale track team broke training yesterday and at the annual banquet last night John R. Kilpatrick, 1911, of New York city, was elected captain of the team for the coming year. Kilpatrick has been a consistent broad jumper and is a member of the "Seven" football team and secured a place on the 1910 all-American eleven.

At the university mass meeting last night John V. McDonnell, 1911, of New York city, was elected manager of the baseball team for the coming season; Francis P. Randolph, 1911, of Baltimore, was elected manager of the crew, and Leslie Rose, 1911, of Dorchester Centre, Mass., manager of the track team.

CLEVELAND, O., June 4.—City detectives may be properly employed to watch and report to their chief all public officials and prominent men who enter saloons, cafes or disorderly houses.

This ruling was made yesterday by the chairman of the civil service commission in the course of the trial of "Golden Rule," Chief of Police Kohler, who is accused of immorality, intoxication and malfeasance in office.

The ruling was made on a charge that Kohler instructed his detectives to make private reports to him of any officials, prominent business men or any one connected with the city visiting disorderly houses, grill rooms, cafes or saloons.

These reports, it was alleged, were intended by the chief for improper use. Counsel for the defense objected to the testimony on the grounds that the collection of the reports was not an offense and no improper use had been shown. This objection was sustained by the commission.

Other testimony introduced was to the effect that Chief Kohler visited a disorderly house and acted familiarly with the inmates. The witnesses were women of the Red Light district and they testified that they were shocked and insulted by the chief's language.

When a bill which dated back to 1904 came up Chairman McCarthy took occasion to remark that it was one instance of many where the board cannot tell what to reckon on in advance.

While before the appropriation committee recently the chairman informed the members of the committee that he could not tell definitely and the above instance explained in a way why he could not.

On motion of Commissioner Burns it was voted to expend the sum of $64 for medical equipment for the two ambulances.

The cash allowance list was looked over and found to be $2.25 less than last month.

HE SHOT AT GIRL

Man First Made a Demand For Letters

BOSTON, June 4.—Walking into the store at 19 Cooper street last evening, Ephraim Albert, 34, of 20 Cooper street, drew a revolver and shot at Miss Sarah Goldberg, the 20 year old daughter of the proprietor, the bullet fortunately missing her.

After the shooting Albert walked slowly up the street. He was arrested on the charge of attempting to kill, at his home at 10 o'clock by Officers Murphy and Jacobson of station 1. Albert's parents are at a loss to understand the action.

Miss Goldberg formerly lived in the flat below Albert, and recently announced her engagement to Frank H. Small, said to be a relative of Albert. She emphatically denied that Albert had ever been attentive to her, and said all she knew was that he had come into the store, and with the words, "Give me those letters," had fired the shot.

"I don't believe he was in his right mind," she declared.

FOUND GUILTY

Man Was Accused of Selling Cocaine

BOSTON, June 4.—A jury in the superior criminal court yesterday brought a verdict of guilty in the case of James J. Cramer, a druggist with a residence on Beach street, who was charged with selling cocaine to William R. Remington on Feb. 13. He will be sentenced on June 8.

When Remington, who was the government's principal witness, was put on the stand, he denied that Cramer had sold him cocaine. Assistant District Attorney Lavelle had Remington taken into the detention room and stripped. His breast and arms were found to be dotted with punctures of a hypodermic syringe. State police officers testified to the truth of the charge against Cramer, and jury was instructed to consider Remington's credibility as a witness.

YALE MEN FEAR

Outcome of Game With Princeton

NEW HAVEN, June 4.—Yale passed from preliminary games to the championship basketball series today when the Blue met Princeton on Yale field. There was much trepidation over the outcome among the followers of Yale, owing to the erratic playing of the nine throughout the spring.

Individually the men have shown good form but as a team they have gone down to defeat many times in games which they were expected to win with ease, and then won some games in surprisingly easy fashion. On the other hand Princeton comes here with the prestige of having twice beaten Harvard and with a good string of victories to make the men nervous in spirits. The sale of tickets indicates an audience upward of seven thousand.

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Forty house democrats had a long conference at the Arlington hotel last night with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Gompers went over with them the positions of organized labor with respect to legislation now pending before congress, and impressed upon the congressmen that the demands of labor are not as radical as, in the words of Mr. Gompers, a "hostile press" led the country to believe.

Among the democratic representatives who were called in by Mr. Gompers were John A. Kethner and Andrew J. Peters of Boston, Champ Clark, the minority leader, was also present.

Mr. Gompers made a lengthy argument dealing especially with the demands of labor for union legislation and amendments to the Sherman anti-trust act. The congressmen understood Mr. Gompers did not expect the enactment of the anti-injunction bill at the present session of congress.

News that the conference had been held did not become generally known until yesterday afternoon.

AN INDICTMENT

HANDLED DOWN IN BULL COTTON CASES

NEW YORK, June 4.—A sealed indictment was handed down yesterday by the special federal grand jury which at the instance of Attorney General Wickham, has been investigating the bull cotton movement in this city and New Orleans. When proceedings before the grand jury began, Clark McKelcher, in charge of the case for the government, admitted that the complaint alleging violation of the Sherman anti-trust law was against Frank B. Haynes and Wm. P. Brown of New Orleans and others.

THE YOUNG MAN THAT CALLS

When the young man calls at your house and asks to look over the gas fixtures you will hear in mind several things:

1. That call is made in your interest.

2. That object is to suggest ways and means of reducing your monthly gas bill.

3. That he will not bore you; that his stay will or should be but a moment.

4. That the inspector knows his business and if everything is all right, he will admit it, for his call is not to disturb you.

5. That the man is not an inspector of the Lowell Gas Light company unless he can show credentials.

WOMAN SET FREE

Was Found Not Guilty of Murder

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—Mrs. Dora Elizabeth Duxey was found not guilty last night by the jury which heard the evidence against her on a charge of murdering William J. Erdor with arsenic.

In 1903 the acquitted woman was married to Robert L. Dowling of Joy, Ill. Dr. Loren B. Duxey was the family physician and attended her four children who died. She was married to Duxey in Burlington, Ia., in August, 1906, after Dowling and divorced her.

Mrs. Duxey came to St. Louis in April, 1908, at the time she was alleged to have married Erdor, who died July 10, 1909.

Miss Kate Erdor, a sister, caused her arrest in Columbus, Neb., on Nov. 14 on the charge of poisoning Erdor. Grand jury indictments were returned Dec. 17, charging Dr. Duxey and Mrs. Duxey with murder in the first degree. Mrs. Duxey denied giving Erdor arsenic and said she was not married to him. She pleaded that Dr. Duxey made her a morphine eater, thus accounting for her conduct.

The charges against Dr. Loren B. Duxey, who went series today with his wife with the murder of Erdor, will come up for trial within the next few weeks.

Don't cry. If it's broken, Potomac will put it together again. Demonstration at Columbia, 55 Market street.

NIGHT EDITION STATE LAND TAX

Rep. Thomas F. Cuff's Fight
Started in the Senate

Bill to Reimburse Cities and Towns Having State Institutions Passed to Second Reading Yesterday—Bill is Being Pushed by Rep. Cuff in Behalf of Tewksbury

The bill to reimburse cities and towns in which the state has public institutions on the valuation of the land owned by the state went to a second reading in the senate yesterday having been previously passed by the house and Rep. "Tommy" Cuff of Lowell and Tewksbury is feeling quite elated thereat.

For years the state has been gathering up farms in the different towns for the purpose of public institutions and as soon as the state got them the towns lost the tax on their valuation. As an example of what the town may lose by having a big state institution in its midst take the town of Tewksbury, which has the state infirmary. The valuation of the land owned by the state in Tewksbury is said to be in the vicinity of $60,000. While the total valuation of the state property at Tewksbury is 65 per cent. of the entire town valuation.

The two went forth for the passage of the bill, Rep. Cuff shouldering the responsibility. They got the bill through the house and yesterday the senate considered it and passed it to a second reading. The passage of the bill means a substantial annual income to the town of Tewksbury which it has never received before.

STRIKE OF MINERS

Over 4200 Coal Miners Deserted the Mines of Operators' Association

Great Destruction of Property Feared — The Operators Say Grant of Miners' Demand Will Increase Price of Coal — President Taft to be Appealed to as Was Roosevelt in Great Anthracite Strike

CHICAGO, June 4.—Destruction of a great deal of mine property, the owners declare, will follow in the wake of the order issued by the officers of the United Mine Workers of Illinois, calling out on a strike all engineers, firemen, pumpmen and emergency workers.

More than 4200 men deserted the mines and by midnight practically every mine in the state operated by members of the Illinois Coal Operators' association was left unprotected against water and other agents of destruction. When the engineers and other workers walked out of the mines the operators immediately instructed their mine managers and superintendents to man the pumps. The operators declared they feared the men would be driven away from the mines the moment any work is attempted. In the event of trouble of this kind the operators will apply for a federal injunction against the miners, and an appeal may be made to President Taft to intervene in the same manner President Roosevelt did in the anthracite coal strike. One of the principal demands of the miners is that the operators pay the wages of shot-firers. The operators declare if they were forced to pay wages of shot-firers it would mean an increase in the price of coal at least three cents a ton. About 600 shot-firers are employed at $4.50 a day.

A NOVEL PROGRAM

To Be Given By the Bartlett School Pupils

On Tuesday, June 7, if the weather be suitable or on the next fair afternoon if it be otherwise, the teachers and pupils of the Bartlett school under the direction of Miss Milton H. Milner of the Lowell Normal school, are to give a program of supervised games and organized play on the Normal school grounds on Broadway at 4:15 p. m. The plan is to show games suitable for everyday use in the school room and yard as well as on the playground. What has been said and written of the value of play when it is properly organized and supervised in preparing children for the responsibilities of later life, together with the accomplishments of other cities in this field, and the money spent or about to be, in our own playgrounds both in connection with schools and otherwise have convinced those in charge at the Normal school and at the Bartlett school that much may be accomplished in our own schools in this direction. Consequently during the past year work has been undertaken and pursued with the aim of learning the truth of the assertions of game and playground enthusiasts and of how much value such work would be for us here in Lowell. In the minds of those interested and in touch with this effort there is no longer any doubt as to the value of a restricted amount of play when such is carefully directed, as an aid to recreation both mental and physical and to the right kind of moral training. To demonstrate so far as is possible with the means at hand the truth of the above conclusions and to aid others who wish to do something along this line rather than to make any attempt at any exhibition or show the purpose of the affair to be held next Tuesday. The following will be the program:

Group 1. Kindergarten—Lassie; ponies; rocking horse; pigeons; skipping tag; fishes; barn yard; soldier boy.
Group 2. Grade 1—See-saw; tossing; tiddypole and pollywog; scissors grinder; flying birds; come and skip with me.
Group 3. Grades 2 and 3—Marching;

Who stands next; Bean bag games; A. Hunting we will go; Snap Jack; mile exercises; Danish greeting.
Group 4. Grades 4 and 5—Running and skipping to music; Simon says; Filling and emptying the basket; Bombarding, Boys vs. Girls; Rhythmic exercise. The Shoemakers.
Group 5. Grades 6 and 7—Marching and Swedish; Three Deep; Ball games; Rhythmic exercises; Danish greeting.
Group 6. Grades 8 and 9—Serpentine race, girls; Medicine ball race, boys; Rhythmic exercise; I see you.

DARING AVIATOR
Intends to Race an Express Train

NEW YORK, June 4.—C. K. Life is confident that he can outstrip any train for that distance.

MEMORIAL WINDOW UNVEILED
LONDON, June 4.—The window placed in the village church at Princetown as a memorial for American prisoners in the War of 1812, was unveiled today. The church stands on Dartmoor, a bleak stretch of tableland in the southern part of Devonshire and near the historic Dartmoor prison, where the American sailors were confined. It was recently restored by Americans, who also purchased the memorial window. The original stone chapel of Princetown was erected by the forced labor of the men whose memory is preserved in the newer structure.

BODY RECOVERED

A Pitiable Scene on Banks of the Concord River

The body of Charles Corr, the Rindge Manual Training school athlete who was drowned in the Concord river last evening, was recovered shortly after five o'clock this morning by Chief of Police Martin Conway of North Billerica and Undertaker John J. O'Connell of this city who dragged the river all night with grappling irons.

The father of the dead boy was present along the river bank throughout the night watching the attempt to recover the body and his grief was most pitiable. The elder Corr has been employed for many years at Harvard college, a man with limited education himself, whose one ambition in life was to see his boy Charlie, the oldest of eight children, pass through the gates of Harvard as a student.

The boy was about to graduate from the Rindge school not only as one of its foremost athletes but as one of its leading scholars and he had passed the entrance examinations to Harvard and in the fall would have entered the college without any conditions attached to his entrance. Thus as the father's fondest hopes were about to be realized death intervened and cut down the promising boy in the blossom of youth.

The body was recovered at Mayberry's bridge and was taken to the warehouses of Undertaker O'Connell in this city to await a view by the med-

REP. THOMAS F. CUFF.

Some twenty years ago an agitation was started to reimburse the towns, but it was allowed to peter out and nothing was done. Three years ago a bill was presented in the legislature providing that the cities and towns should be reimbursed, but it was allowed to lie dormant until this year, when a real live man from Lowell went down to Beacon hill in the person of Rep. Thomas Cuff. Mr. Cuff dug up the bill at once and sought the assistance of Rep. Boyle of Northboro, who has a state institution at Southboro in his district.

BIG AUTO EVENT THE INSURGENTS

Annual Hill Climbing Contest Held at Worcester Today Have Put the Nicaraguan Troops to Flight

WORCESTER, June 4.—Prepared to overcome by utmost speed the steep graded obstacle which has given Dead Horse hill its significant name, the drivers of more than half a hundred automobiles of varying types and high speeds awaited at the foot of the hill today the start of the Worcester Automobile club's fifth annual hill climb.

The event being the only large automobile contest for New England this year, and one of the four hill climbing events which the automobile manufacturers of the country are supporting, gave it greater interest than usual. In fact, except for the Wilkes-Barre, Pa., climb last week, the Dead Horse hill event is the country's greatest. An entry list of nearly three score cars for today's racing ascent of the mile of vari-graded hill road was, perhaps, the best which has ever entered a contest of this kind in America.

Although the record holder of the course, L. F. Baldwin of Providence, who, in a Stanley steamer, reached the top last year in 34 seconds, was not a competitor today, it was expected that several of the drivers at least would be able to force their cars over the hills at a rate considerably better than a mile a minute. It was known before the race started that several of the drivers in secret practice had made this time.

The car that Baldwin used was sent up the hill today in charge of Fred E. Marlow, the former straightaway speed king.

Other prominent drivers competing in the event included Harry P. Grant, in the Alco car in which he won the last Vanderbilt cup race; Caleb Bragg, the Cincinnati amateur, who recently defeated Barney Oldfield at the wheel of a Fiat; Stanley Mortin, driving a Houp-Rockwell, the biggest car which has ever competed on the hill, and Robert Burman in a Buick.

The course today was in fine condition. Finishing touches to the week's work of surfacing were made during the forenoon, the hill being closed until 1:30 o'clock, the scheduled time of the contest's start.

Dead Horse hill is one-quarter in Worcester and three-quarters in Leicester. Its steepest grade is about 15 per cent. The hill is nearly straight for the full mile, allowing a clear sprint, but it is so narrow that only one car can ascend at a time. The total rise is about 350 feet.

SUPREME COURT ANNUAL CONTEST

Disposed of 391 Cases Andover-Exeter Baseball Game Today

WASHINGTON, June 4.—With one vacant seat on the bench throughout the entire year and another vacated for several months by death, the supreme court of the United States at the term ended this week was unable to keep its docket down to normal. Today there are 108 more cases on the docket than there were a year ago, the 100th case being decided just closed 391 cases were disposed of.

PLAYED TRUANT

BOY HAD TO BE CUT FROM TARRED ROOF TRAP

NEW YORK, June 4.—Francis Clerly, 8 years old, played truant yesterday and sought amusement, safe from his mother's sight on the roof. He stretched himself on his back to watch the clouds sailing overhead and fell asleep. Late yesterday he awoke to find himself stuck fast.

The roof had been freshly covered with tar, and Francis was glued tight—trousers, coat and hair. He could use only his voice and his legs, but he used them so vigorously he summoned help.

It was necessary to cut off the lad's hair and his clothes to free him. His mother ended the day's outing with a spanking.

Application blanks for the election of great chiefs and representatives were received. The election will be held on the last meeting night of this month.

S. S. Albert Stophard gave an interesting talk on the tribe's progress and prosperity.

Prophet James Kershaw spoke on the order in general.

TEXTILE SCHOOL

Rev. Dr. Hamilton's Address at Yesterday's Exercises

Alexander W. Hamilton, D. D., LL. D., president of Tufts college, was the principal speaker at the textile school commencement exercises yesterday and his address was omitted in The Sun's report of the proceedings.

THREE INQUESTS

WERE HELD BY JUDGE McDONOUGH

FALL RIVER, June 4.—Judge John J. McDonough held three inquests yesterday.

He finds that Louis Bernard of this city came to his death on March 19, 1910, by being struck by a locomotive while unlawfully trespassing on the tracks of the N. Y. N. H. & R. railroad.

In the case of Maria J. Corneiro, 1 years of age, who came to her death as a result of being struck and being run over by an Old Colony street car company electric the judge says:

"The carelessness of the child's father contributed to her death, while the motor car did what he could do to stop the car which passed completely over the child, the fender serving its purpose as well as an airplane can."

The immediate cause of the child's death was the same old worthless, scoundrel fender, which has claimed so many victims in Fall River.

In the case of Frederick Crossley, who met his death on Sunday, May 8, 1910, in consequence of being struck by a D. & W. electric trolley and then run over by a street car, the judge says:

"Gray was guilty of gross negligence. Gray was arraigned in the district court yesterday on a charge of manslaughter in causing the death of Crossley and was found not guilty, the evidence against the motor car being considered insufficient to sustain the charge."

CHILD BURNED

HER CONDITION IS REGARDED AS SERIOUS

BOSTON, June 4.—If little Catherine Collins, the 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremiah Collins of 223 Saratoga street, East Boston, survives the very serious burning she received yesterday afternoon, she will owe her life to the energy and promptness of Dr. J. H. Strong, a neighbor.

Jeremiah Collins, a day laborer, and Mrs. Collins were both away from home at work, and Catherine was playing out in the back yard with one of her little brothers. It is supposed that they must have been amusing themselves by lighting a fire of paper and small sticks, for in some way the clothes of the girl were ignited by the flames.

OFFICIAL VISIT

DEPUTY M. F. BOYLE TO BE GUEST OF ST. JOHN'S SOCIETY

Mr. Michael F. Boyle, recently appointed district deputy of the St. John T. A. society of North Chelmsford by Pres. John T. Shea of that C. A. union will pay an official visit to the North Chelmsford society tomorrow and the occasion is expected to be a notable one in the annals of the visiting society. Mr. Boyle will be accompanied by Messrs. Edward F. Skaffery, James O'Sullivan, President James J. Gallagher of the Matthew Temperance Institute and about thirty members of the local organization where Mr. Boyle is holding the vice presidency. In North Chelmsford Pres. McTigue will preside and there will be addresses by the deputy and the other guests.

THE AMERICAN SQUADRON

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The American squadron which has been at Buenos Ayres to honor the centennial of the birth of the Argentine republic, in which Major General Wood was sent a special ambassador of the United States will sail today for Montevideo, according to information received from the American minister at Buenos Ayres.

BLUEFIELDS, Nicaragua, June 4.—Advisers received here state that the insurgent forces under General Mena at Rama have defeated and put to flight the government troops commanded by General Chavarria.

Following the withdrawal of the Madriz forces from the immediate vicinity of this city, Gen. Chamorro with 400 men was dispatched to reinforce Gen. Mena. Gen. Chamorro arrived at Rama Thursday morning and Gen. Mena at once sent a messenger to the government headquarters in the field, offering Chavarria 12 hours in which to surrender or fight. The reply was a dust from the fortified position on a hill close to Rama with the object, it is said, of escaping to the interior.

When Mena learned that the enemy was escaping he sent Gen. Recreo with a strong force to cut off its retreat. An engagement followed and continued for three hours, when the troops of President Madriz became thoroughly demoralized and fled in every direction, leaving their dead and wounded on the field.

On Thursday evening, Thomas P. Moffat, the American consul, issued a proclamation declaring that vessels entering the port of Bluefields must pay customs duties to the government headed by Gen. Estrada, the revolutionary leader. Subsequently the schooner Cayo entered the harbor and was not interfered with by the government officials who are in possession of the custom house on Bluefields bluff.

The action of the United States in ruling that the revolutionists may receive custom duties has been received with enthusiasm and is considered a great victory for Gen. Estrada. Its effect is to rob the government of the fruits of its capture of Bluefields bluff and the custom house.

The American decision also destroys the effectiveness of the government's steamer Venus, which is lying off Bluefields.

It is believed that Gen. Mena has by this time surrounded and captured Chavarria's army.

TEXTILE SCHOOL

Rev. Dr. Hamilton's Address at Yesterday's Exercises

Alexander W. Hamilton, D. D., LL. D., president of Tufts college, was the principal speaker at the textile school commencement exercises yesterday and his address was omitted in The Sun's report of the proceedings.

Dr. Hamilton gave a brilliant address, one of the kind that furnishes food for future reflection. In part he said:

"I wish to congratulate you on the record you have attained during the past year, and on the record as a school you have made in past years. I had it in mind to say that your record is very remarkable, but I am not going to say that, for it is not remarkable. Because of the school you have and the industrial efficiency. You want to be useful members of society, that society into which you are born, must live and to which you must make your contribution. This world doesn't owe anybody anything, except a fair return for what has been put into it. Now every boy and girl must be taught these things, for the ordinary intelligent life-course of life. No man can live well with his fellows unless he can exchange ideas with them. There are a large number of educational opportunities offered. You have here a school where you learn to do one group of things, that is the contribution to society of this school. And there is plenty of room for other schools which will fit men and women for other walks of life.

"Unless we make careful provision for social and industrial efficiency, the United States must, in the course of years, become a second rate nation, one behind the powers of the earth, a place which will not be a desirable one in which to live. The United States has been enjoying and exporting an immense food product upon the market at less than the cost of production. The time has come when this condition no longer exists. We now must depend very largely on our manufactured products. We have got to exchange them, for this world is a small world today. We contented ourselves until a comparatively recent time without home markets. We now find ourselves compelled to go out into the markets of the world and to compete with the nations with Germany and France and England and Japan, the most dangerous of which is Germany.

"I wonder if you estimate the vast strides with which Germany has advanced during the reign of Wilhelm II? The country has advanced marvellously, has grown rich and powerful and thorough. The people of the country are not naturally brighter, nor more industrious nor more moral than are Americans, but because the German is better trained in the production of goods, and as a salesman and as a competitor, he is decidedly the more dangerous man of the age. We do not hear of the German emigrating from the fatherland now. Nobody leaves that country now, except the highly trained man, and he goes to the country where his abilities are very easily recognized and paid for.

"Japan is trying to follow Germany in the race and France is coming into it. And the race will go to the trained. And we shall not be in it unless we train our children for it, unless we can train them to produce and sell as the Germans do we cannot compete with them.

"My second point concerns the capacity of the American for self-government: the intellectual ability to understand clearly and to answer our needs. To be an efficient citizen of a great republic requires a great deal more of a man now than in the past. It is the inevitable that democracy—its power—should be much more widespread in the future than it now is. The people have covered themselves by representative government. We are now in the midst of a revolution, and the outcome of this will be that the people will govern themselves directly. I am making a prophecy—I will not argue it. The people are going to make laws for themselves, for good or ill. Now the people of Boston do not propose that a mayor shall disappear, that the four wards shall be abolished, that they will recall him in two. The agitation for a direct election of senators has taken shape and will bear fruit some day. I don't know whether you know it or not but we surely are in the throes of a revolution in this country. American citizens, if they are to remain directly in contact with the working of this nation, must know something about the great questions of the day, and that will necessitate much of careful training along certain lines.

"My third point concerns the personal life. We must not forget that side of life; it is something more than the making of ourselves a perfect machine. Every man, woman and child in the United States ought to learn how to live. Whatever material circumstances may surround a life it should be full and rich. The finest things in the world are not automobiles and champagne, steam yachts and palaces. The finest things are those which are inside of a man: the power and the desire to enjoy something more than the mere gratification of the senses. These finer things mean that we can enjoy a good book as well as a good dinner. We ought to be able to contemplate a statue as well as to know about the speed of an automobile. We have an inexpensive literature, public libraries, art museums, and we ought to have the power to enjoy them all. We suffer from a lack of taste and a lack of ability to see things, and a lack of interest in the things of the world, and we know about the shortening of them in the past with an increase in the pay of the laboring man. There will come the expediting of the processes of production. The workday of the future will be less than eight hours of labor.

"I should not be surprised if the hours of labor were further shortened, and we know about the shortening of them in the past with an increase in the pay of the laboring man. There will come the expediting of the processes of production. The workday of the future will be less than eight hours of labor.

"Is it a good thing to have abundant leisure? It may, perchance, be the worst thing which can befall a man. Every hour which you take out of the laboring man's time you place at the mercy of those who take his time and his money, unless you fortify him with those desires and powers which will make him humane to competitors. I wish all the work of the world could be done in five hours each day. But if such a thing were introduced tomorrow the workman would be much worse off than he is today. The system of education must bear in mind the three points I have mentioned, the 'educational trinity.'

TENNIS CONTEST

YORK HARBOR, Me., June 4.—In an interview today on the controversy over the preliminary matches between England and America for the Davis lawn tennis cup, Dr. James Dwight, president of the United States National Lawn Tennis association, explained the situation which he said had become somewhat complicated. Dr. Dwight said:

"Australia asked England and the United States to play the preliminaries in Australia. England refused to do this. Thereupon England asked us to play the preliminary in England. We called England that we should probably agree to the proposal. We found later that we could not do so. We did not think it proper and sportsmanlike to take the chance of winning in England and then forfeiting the challenge match to Australia, which country holds the Davis trophy. We desired to be assured of following a winning of the preliminaries in England, if such it turned out, by sending a team to Australia. We have not yet seen any way to send a team to England with the assurance of an Australian journey. The length of time taken by the two journeys is such that very few if any of the men who desire can give up. However, we still hope to send a team to Australia."

"I should not be surprised if the hours of labor were further shortened, and we know about the shortening of them in the past with an increase in the pay of the laboring man. There will come the expediting of the processes of production. The workday of the future will be less than eight hours of labor."

6 O'CLOCK CORRUPTION FUND

Paid to Illinois Legislators for Favorable Fish Legislation

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., June 4.—At today's session of the Sangamon county grand jury it was expected that legislation affecting the fishing interests of the state would be delved into.

Henry Leman of Pekin, one of the best known fish dealers of the state, was scheduled to appear before the grand jury today. He is said to have told Prosecuting Attorney Burke that he has contributed during the sessions of several legislatures in order to defeat measures inimical to the fishing interests.

John Dixon of Peoria who has been named as the "collector" of the alleged fund for the defeat of the fishing license bill was also scheduled to be questioned today by the grand jurors.

ROOSEVELT GETS LICENSE

NEW YORK, June 4.—Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., accompanied by his fiancée, Miss Edith Alexander, applied today to Clerk Stuart Harris in the city hall for a license to wed on June 20th. The couple, who were accompanied by a secretary to Collector Loeb, arrived at the city hall in an automobile.

Young Roosevelt said he was 22 years old, a manufacturer, and resided at Oyster Bay. Miss Alexander said she was 21 and lived in this city.

THE CREWS RESCUED

SANDWICH, June 4.—While feeling their way along the sandy shore of the Sandwich breakwater in a stiff northerly gale today, the barges Richmond and Ark, used in hauling stone for the construction of the canal at Sandwich went aground, resulting in the Richmond sinking a short time afterwards while the Ark now lies in a perilous position. The crews of both vessels were saved by the crew of the Wood End live-saving station who went out to the barge in their power boat.

NEW BEAM HOUSE

Plans for Building Explained to Board of Health

C. P. Hall, fourth vice president of the American Hide & Leather company, and Charles H. Stehling of the Charles H. Stehling Co., designers and builders of tanneries and tanners' machinery, came to Lowell this forenoon and met the board of health. The meeting had to do with the establishment of a beam house at the company's premises which will be odorless. Those who have experienced life in the vicinity of such plants aver that there is no such thing as an odorless beam house.

Mr. Stehling went over the plans with the board members and he explained them in detail.

The beam house that the American Hide & Leather company has in mind will cost $130,000, and will be located in Perry street, at the south end near Fort Hill park and in close proximity to the company's main plant. The plans are very elaborate and plans, of course, are not offensive.

From what the company's representative and the engineer had to say there are these things to be considered:

First—The building will be of steel and cement. It is held that wood retains the odor of the beaming process and that is why wood is eliminated.

Second—There will be a constant flushing into a sewer that will be large enough to take care of anything that goes its way.

Third—There will be fans and vents that will take care of whatever remains of the foul smell and that the air will be pure when it reaches the roof or the natural outlet.

Fourth—The building will be in Perry street, about 300 yards from the nearest residence, on the railroad tracks and on the bank of the Concord river.

Fifth—The plant in Howe street is to be abandoned for all time, and if the new plant in Perry street is offensive then it will be up to the board of health to condemn it as a nuisance.

That is, in substance, one side of the story, but there are two sides to every story. Persons living in the vicinity of Perry street object even to the odor that come from the company's main plant, to say nothing of the beam house, and they do not want to see a beam house erected there. The company's very efficient and very persuasive fourth vice president says that the building, although costing $130,000, will be neither heard, seen nor smelled.

To make a long story short, it is up to the board of health to decide as to the propriety of allowing the American Hide & Leather company to build a beam house in Perry street, and the board has decided to visit a beam house in Milwaukee before giving its decision.

There are at least six petitions before the board of health objecting to the erection of a beam house in Perry street. Hearings on these petitions will be given in the near future and the plans explained to the board today will be explained to the petitioners.

The company's plans for a new building are nothing if not comprehensive so far as everything, except the smell, is concerned, and it can be said in all truth that had the company taken the advice of its Mr. Hall in 1904 it would have established its beam plant on the ground upon which the present plans have been prepared. He advised the company to build a beam house on land owned by the company and in direct connection with the main factory.

There are a good many things connected with the beam house plans that are very commendable. The receiving and the shipping doors will open on the railroad tracks and there will be no carting of goods through the factory or through the streets. The building will be 300 feet long and 34 feet high at the highest point. It will be 120 feet wide at one end and 117 at the other. All the walls will be of concrete and Mr. Hall said today that the primary fight was to minimize the production of odors, and he believed that constant flushing would do the trick.

Engineer Stehling, six months ago, agreed with the board of health, in its opinion that the beam house in Howe street was a nuisance. He said today that it was a nuisance, and to that statement he added: "If a beam house is erected here according to the plans that are before us, Lowell will have the best beam house in America. It will be absolutely sanitary and odorless."

TWO MISSIONARIES DROWNED

BOMBAY, June 4.—Miss W. Williams and Howard Bishop, missionaries of the American Baptist Foreign Mission society, were drowned while swimming in the Gulf of Cambay at Bulsar, north of this city.

ROOSEVELT TELLS JOHN BULL HOW TO RUN HIS EMPIRE

WAS RELEASED ON BAIL INSPECTOR GOODWIN

Head of Gladstone Athletic Club Was Retired on a Pension by Placed Under Arrest the Police Board Today

Fred Harrington, president of the Gladstone Athletic club, which has conducted a number of boxing exhibitions in Association hall and at Washington park during the past several months, was arrested shortly before noon today by Inspector John Welch on a complaint charging him with promoting a public boxing exhibition.

The complaint was made by Sgt. Redmond Welch, and it is said that the complaint is based upon the three exhibitions which were recently held at Washington park.

Harrington was released shortly after his arrest, bail being set at $500, and he will appear in police court on Monday morning to answer to the complaint.

The board of police met in special session this morning and the meeting was an important one in several ways. It marked the close of the term of office of Chairman F. K. Stearns, and it was the first meeting that Commissioner Charles H. Hanson was present at for several weeks, owing to the fact that he has been traveling in the west. During the course of the meeting several important matters were transacted among them being the transfer of Inspector Frank Goodwin to the pension roll.

Chairman Stearns Retires

Contrary to expectations, Chairman Frank K. Stearns did not make any formal statement when he left the meeting about 12:30 o'clock this afternoon. After he had good-bye to Commissioner Hanson and Clerk Flaherty and Inspector Fox, who has been acting as assistant to Mr. Flaherty, Mr. Stearns approached the newspapermen and thanked them for the manner in which they had treated him during his term of office.

When asked if he intended to make any statement relative to what had been done by the police board during the time he was chairman or relative to any changes or improvements that he would suggest, he said that in the annual report of the board of police he has a statement, which he considered his farewell statement, but he did not want to make it public until it had been submitted to the mayor.

Mr. Stearns was appointed chairman of the board of police on Tuesday, December 17, 1907, by Frederick Barnum, who was then mayor. Prior to the appointment the board was composed of Joseph Jennings, chairman, and John W. McEvoy and Fred N. Wier. Charges were preferred against Messrs. Jennings and McEvoy and at the conclusion of a hearing which was given they were removed and Messrs. Thomas P. Boulger and Charles H. Hanson were appointed to succeed them. Mr. Wier then resigned and Mr. Stearns was appointed in his place. Monday, Mr. John J. Mullane, who was recently appointed chairman of the board by Mayor Meehan, will take charge.

Commissioner Hanson Returns

Commissioner Charles H. Hanson, who has been in the west for several weeks for his health and incidentally to transact some business, was given a cordial welcome when he put in an appearance at ten o'clock this morning. Mr. Hanson returned to Lowell, Thursday, and in conversation with a representative of The Sun stated that he had had a most delightful trip and was much improved in health.

Inspector Goodwin Pensioned

The principal business of the meeting was the transferring of Inspector Frank Goodwin to the pension roll. Inspector Goodwin was born in Newport, N. H., on May 11, 1845, and became a member of the department in March, 1872. In 1879 he was promoted to the rank of sergeant and on June 7, 1881, was appointed inspector and has held that position ever since. He served for several years on the dinner squad, but at late had been known as the warrant officer and also performed service in the criminal session of the police court.

Cook Matter Filled

In the matter of complaint against Patrolman Alfred C. Cook, who was recently given a hearing on charges that he did not pay his debts, the board decided to place the charges on file owing to the fact that the officer has filed a petition in the bankruptcy court.

Routine Matters

After retiring Inspector Goodwin on the pension roll the board voted to abolish that office and for the present the duties will be performed by one of the members of the dinner squad.

On petition of the Miller Brothers 101 Canby Wild West Show, which had a permit to show here on July 9th, the date of the permit was changed to the 6th.

DIAMOND NOTES

At Haverhill today.

Nothing doing at Spaulding park until Friday.

Lowell had 18 men left on bases.

Such a business in the first inning.

five hits off Wolfgang, while Fikes hit three men and gave a base on balls.

Down at Haverhill yesterday poor

Mike Toole got his. Nine hits off him in the sixth inning.

Jesse Burkett thinks a lot of Fitzpatrick as a player. Jesse considers him one of the best in the league. He uses his head," said Jesse, "and is always pulling off something new."

That was a ludicrous attempt at a

"squeeze play" that Conney made. He should have started for home with the pitcher's arm.

Lowell got nine hits, ten bases on balls and five men were hit by pitched balls and yet could score but four runs.

While Vance's error let in the winning run it was not wholly responsible for the defeat.

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1909 was

16,828

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotta, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 1, 1910. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

This is by far the largest average circulation of any newspaper in Lowell.

A SLOP-OVER PANEGYRIC

That was a very rampant panegyric that the Rev. John Haynes Holmes delivered at the funeral of the late ex-Mayor Hibbard of Boston. This clergyman represented the deceased as killed by the treachery of his friends, "stabbed in the back" by the friends he had assisted and "rouded by the famished dogs" who hungered for the public office he refused to offer. Now, this is all the most arrant nonsense and the author of such stuff "slopped over," as they say, very badly. It is plain to every sensible man that any man who enters the arena of politics must expect to meet reverses, and if he is not prepared to meet them like a man he should never enter politics. Hibbard was defeated as candidate for reelection under the new charter, and the small vote he received indicated that the number of his friends was very small. He was then nominated for collector by Mayor Fitzgerald but was rejected by the civil service commission. For that the friends of the mayor were not to blame. He was rejected, we believe, on the ground that his health was not good, and his death resulting so soon after the rejection proved the accuracy of that decision. He was a weak man politically as well as physically, and the fact that he died of tuberculosis would tend to show that the Rev. Mr. Holmes spoke with far too much positivity in regard to the real cause of death when he openly charged that Hibbard was killed by the treachery of his friends or from being stabbed in the back.

BOGUS MEDICAL DIPLOMAS

Medical societies and boards of health have succeeded in exposing certain bogus medical colleges in Chicago that existed apparently for the purpose of turning out medical diplomas to be distributed on fake examinations and the payment of a monetary consideration.

One of these diploma mills was conducted under the dual title of Chicago Medical University and the Crescent Medical University. The former furnished the graduate with a diploma as doctor of obstetrics while he waits, provided he pays the sum of $40, and the latter distributed diplomas certifying to ample qualification as a pharmacist for the sum of $30. The applicant in either case can take the course by mail so as to make things convenient for all concerned. One of these concerns was detected by the daughter of a physician from the south acting under his directions. By taking the lessons by mail she had no difficulty whatever in securing diplomas on payment of the $70 necessary, so that she now holds a diploma in obstetrics and also a diploma as a pharmacist, although knowing practically nothing of either subject.

It is difficult to estimate the number of such diplomas from these and other fake institutions throughout the country. There should be severe punishment provided for any concern detected in any such business as there is no telling how many lives may be sacrificed through having men with slight medical knowledge go out to practice upon an unsuspecting public. It is a crime that may result in the destruction of numerous lives and should, therefore, have a corresponding penalty.

TO ABOLISH MEMORIAL DAY

Some prominent officials of the Grand Army have expressed the wish that Memorial Day be abolished, claiming that it is not properly respected, that it is made a day of sport and observed more in the spirit of the Fourth of July than of a real Memorial day.

With all due respect to those who entertain such opinions, we believe they are entirely mistaken. Memorial day is observed more generally and more patriotically than it ever was at any previous time. The veterans should be satisfied with the very general decoration of the graves, the general suspension of business, the fact that the memorial exercises are attended by large numbers and that there is never any lack of respect or reverence towards the customs of the day. In fact the day is observed in this state by the general decoration of all graves where the deceased have any surviving friends.

It would be a serious mistake for the veterans to suppose that the young people should shut themselves up in their homes and that whole cities should put on the garb of mourning with the coming of Memorial day each year. It is quite a sufficient observance of the day if the memorial exercises are carried out with due reverence. That is all the veterans can expect.

On Memorial day the sacrifices of the heroes of the Civil war are extolled and the surviving veterans are honored as heroes who risked their lives to save the Union. The cities appropriate money freely for the observance of the day and not only extol the memory of the veterans who have passed away but also honor the survivors of the great conflict who are soon to follow. In such an observance there is enough to show what the patriots have done; there is enough to teach the rising generation impressive lessons of patriotism so that if duty calls in their day they will readily follow the example of the veterans and sacrifice their lives if necessary for the flag. But after the young people have participated in the memorial exercises why should they or even some of the old people be deprived of harmless recreation? Why object to a ball game, to track meets, to cricket games, that do not interfere in any way with the observance of the day?

We are confident that when the last of the veterans of the Civil war shall have passed away the people who are now reproached with lack of reverence on Memorial day will observe the day with as much fervor and as much respect for the memory of the soldier dead as do the surviving veterans today. It is no indication at all of a lack of patriotism that young men will play ball or engage in Marathon runs on Memorial day. We are afraid that the veterans either expect too much unnecessary sacrifices from the youth of the land or else are too sensitive on such matters. They are assuredly mistaken if they think that either with the old or the young there is any lack of appreciation of the inestimable sacrifices of the patriots who served in the Civil war.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

With today's performances the current season at the Opera House will be brought to a close and the theatre will be closed for the summer. The closing performance will be given today starting at 1.30, 3, 7 and 8.50. The Vitagraph picture of King Edward's funeral is proving a picture of more than usual interest and many visit the theatre for the second time to see this really wonderful reproduction of the remarkable gathering of the rulers of the world. The picture will be shown at each performance today as well as the remainder of the excellent program being offered this week. Prices at the Opera House are five and ten cents.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Today at the Academy of Music the performance will run continuously from 2 to 10 p. m. and every act and picture is a feature of this fine playhouse. Heading the vaudeville are Kelly and Reno, an acrobatic act that is very amusing. Jack Dempsey, the tramp dancer, is a wonder with his feet, and he makes a big hit with the crowds. Claudia Resette is singing the latest songs in her pleasing manner, and views of the different countries are shown. Continuous show tomorrow, 5 and 10 cents.

EMPIRE THEATRE

Today is the last time the show now playing at the Empire theatre can be seen. Victor Shaker, the boy ventriloquist, still brings repeated applause with his astonishing feats. Massey and Kramer in their little playlet "The Opera" are good, especially the clowning playlet. Sunday there will be given the usual concert. The program of moving pictures has been selected for Sunday only, as have also the illustrated songs. The songs will be sung by Mr. Charles Rogers and Miss May Whitley.

THEATRE VOYONS

The attendance at King Edward's funeral of the crowned heads of Europe adds greatly to the interest of the pictures shown today at the Theatre Voyons, for two excellent views can be had of the entire party of notable mourners. The present king of England, William of Germany, Alfonso of Spain and many others can easily be recognized in the pictures. The military display at the funeral is given full attention in the pictures and without a doubt they are the most important new pictures ever shown. The musical features of the program, including solos by Miss Ida Wilson of the Boston Opera company and duets by James and Lillian Bates, are exceptionally good. Tomorrow the usual good Sunday concert will be given, commencing at one in the afternoon.

LOST HIS LIFE

Chas. Corr, Young Athlete, Drowned in the Concord River

Disappeared While Swimming at Billerica Last Evening — Was a Popular Student of Rindge Manual Training School of Cambridge

Charles J. Corr, aged 18, captain of the Rindge Manual Training school crew of Cambridge, and otherwise prominently identified with the athletics of the school, was drowned in the Concord river last night while sporting with his fellow oarsmen. The body had not been recovered last night.

Within a week or so he was to have received his diploma from the school, and, according to Superintendent Wood, he was to have been graduated as one of the leading men in his class. The young man was drowned while in swimming. Together with other members of his crew he was enjoying himself at about 6 o'clock in the Concord river at Billerica.

A boat was in use to dive from, and, according to a diver, he was not a strong swimmer, was holding to the side of the boat. For some time they enjoyed themselves in this way leaping from the boat, up to the time they were thrown into a panic through the drowning of Corr.

Corr was born in Cambridge, and always lived there. He was graduated at the St. Paul's parochial school, and was the coxswain of the crew. All during the afternoon they sported about in the vicinity of the school camp.

Shortly before 6 o'clock a swim was proposed and nearly all the boys accepted the proposal and the water was soon well filled with boys. For some time they enjoyed themselves in this way leaping from the boat, up to the time they were thrown into a panic through the drowning of Corr.

Corr was a member of the school crew last year and this year was elected captain, filling the office efficiently. He was one of the most popular boys at the school, and was a regular attendant at the St. Peter's Roman Catholic church, Concord avenue, Cambridge.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT

May Be Made Chairman of Arbitration Court

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt will be tendered the offer of the chairmanship of the international court of arbitration, now being jointly planned by the great powers, as soon as the president has had a chance to confer with him about the matter. His salary will be about $5000 a month.

The offer, it was stated yesterday by high diplomatic authority, will be made by the president personally, who will act as spokesman for the governments interested.

It is known positively that Germany, France, Italy and Japan have signified that Col. Roosevelt is their popular choice for the position. Russia and England are yet to be heard from.

In view of France's consent and her own acceptance of the Rooseveltian peace overtures in 1905, Russia's formal acceptance is taken as a matter of course. Diplomatic circles deny that his Guild hall speech about Egyptian affairs has alienated official British sympathy.

A statement made yesterday is that President Taft's good offices are not official, as the diplomatic details of the joint peace proposals will be worked out through the department of state. The president will act as a medium for the powers in making the request of Col. Roosevelt to head the arbitration court, because the foreign governments consider him close enough to Mr. Roosevelt to assure his consideration of the offer.

In view of the importance of the planned tribunal, whose cases will surpass in judicial importance those so far tried before any international court, foreign experts are engaged in figuring out the probable plan, not share for each government. They believe that the yearly cost of the court will be about $200,000, to be shared equally among the United States,

England, France, Russia, Germany, Italy, Japan and Austria-Hungary. Noting that they have decided as to the share that Turkey, Holland and Belgium will have, although each of these countries will be allowed one judge.

ACCIDENT CASES

THAT WERE TREATED AT THE EMERGENCY HOSPITAL

Fred Panian, residing at 339 West Sixth street, while going home to dinner yesterday noon on his bicycle met with a painful accident.

When he reached a point on Bridge street near the corner of Third street he got into a position where he would have to strike a wagon or run into a boy. It is evident that he got excited at the predicament in which he found himself and those who witnessed the accident claim that he first struck the boy and later crashed into the wagon. He was taken to the Emergency hospital where it was found that his injuries were of a minor character.

Charles F. Smith, of 16 Branch street, 43 years of age, got a piece of a twig in his left eye yesterday while wandering on the banks of the Concord river, and was unable to get it out with the assistance at hand. It was removed at the Emergency hospital.

William Doherty, of 22 Broadway, 22 years of age, cut one of his fingers while at work in the Hamilton mills and had his wound dressed at the hospital.

Robert Cunniff, of 8 Rogers street, 25 years of age, slipped and fell while at work in the Mohr Plush company's mill, tearing the ligaments of his right knee. He was treated at the emergency hospital.

The Millinery World

Midsummer Creations to Suit Every Woman, Be She a Beauty, Semibeauty or Just Plain

THE question of the hat is the crowning point in the toilet without a doubt in more senses than one, for its suitability often makes or mars the entire appearance, and a good hat—a creation in a word—often carries off and rises triumphant over an old-fashioned gown. This season we have a choice so catholic that it is difficult to resist the desire to buy "just one more." It would be out of the question to assert that there is no fashion to guide one in the present millinery world, for there are certain traits which draw the broad line between this year's hats and last season's. For instance, whereas the shapes of last season drooped, those of this summer—that is, many of them—come down well over the head, but they have an upward curve at the same time. Rather a contradiction in terms, I admit, but a sartorial fact nevertheless.

The choice in headgear is, as I have said, almost limitless. Still, there are women who aver that they can't find a hat they can wear "without looking rakish in it." To these disgruntled ladies I would say that the lady's hat does exist, the one both stylish and becoming, but it is not easy to find. The hat selection, which ranges from the picturesque and artistic at one end of the scale to what some one recently described as "not beautiful, but stylish," at the other, is quite a long way to stretch, but there are all sorts in between, including those filling the adjective uppermost in society parlance, "quant."

One might say that the turban is mistress of the situation for morning wear, and the forms it take are by no means eccentric. The turbans most favored by the Parisienne are those of soft, plaited straw, generally in two colors, one soft and pliable that they can be deftly crushed into any shape most becoming to the wearer. Usually they give one the impression of a large bouffant crown tied in just above a narrow border which rests on the head. A chon of ribbon, a tuft of flowers or a long winged bird poised very upright well to the front is the sole attempt at ornamentation. There are turbans of straw that swathe the head in rajah fashion, but it is only the exceptional girls who should wear these eccentric and bizarre creations. And unfortunately in the majority of cases it is the very last woman who should take liberties with her appearance who appears in a shape of this kind.

The low set high turban and the hat that turns up directly in front are very trying concoctions for even the prettiest woman. The straight, hard line across the forehead is rarely becoming. The upturned brim pitilessly reveals every defect of feature and complexion, shows every wrinkle, every blemish, every touch of makeup.

If women really understood the merciful influence of a brim shading at least a little of the brow and eyes few would have the audacity to dispense with that aid to beauty, save when for convenience's sake they choose a really small hat.

So much for common sense. Now for what is modish, whether or not it is sensible.

There is no via media with the great modistes this season, no phylandering. It must be either small turbans or very large hats that we are to wear, and the contrast being so decided, it is piquant. With some of the largest shapes the material with which they are covered is so pretty they are left with very little trimming at all—just one fine feather at the left side or a monster rose. Leghorn hats, large and becoming of line, are covered, either the crown or brim, sometimes both, with black or white chantilly lace. Hats, too, of changeable taffeta and leghorn are smart, and blue and pink combinations, which of late have not been thought sophisticated enough for chicness, are assuming considerable importance in midsummer millinery.

Beautiful hats there are with a sweeping brim curving upward at the side toward the back most alluring in line. The soft Italian or tagal straws are crumpled up in front with a chon or a bunch of flowers catching up the brim, a shape that is very becoming to most American faces. Other hats again are covered with flowers, no ribbon or tulle being introduced to vary the scheme. The Louis XVI. hats sharply turned up behind admit of the return of the cachepigne, always a favorite and pretty.

A point to be remembered as to flowers is that the best milliners are leaving the beaten track and going far afield for the blooms they use, choosing such kinds as begonias, I can't imagine; sweet peas, wood violets and anemones, though the queen of flowers is too firmly established ever to yield pride of place to any lesser blossom. The aftermath of the chandelier is responsible for the late vogue for wings and plumage. They are very unusual adornments for summer millinery, being more associated with demi-season and autumn styles. Surely there can be no woman who cannot find exactly what she wants and what suits her in the ceaseless vagaries of millinery modes.

CATHERINE TALBOT.

Her Own Allowance

LOTS of girls who have successfully passed a difficult mathematical examination and can tell the exact cost of feeding so many thousand sheep when each one consumes a given quantity of food in half a day are utterly ignorant of the value of money when applied to everyday affairs of life. Why? Generally speaking, because mothers have done everything for them. Mother and father, too, have furnished all the money required for charity, clothing, amusements and what not. The girl is probably not extravagant and does not ask for much, but she has all she wants and has no idea of making a certain sum serve for any particular purpose.

This is not just to the girl herself. She arrives at the age of nineteen perhaps without possessing that knowledge which gives self reliance. There is no exaggeration in this statement. More than one husband has said something to the following effect: "Bless her! She's the dearest wife in the world, but she doesn't know a little bit about making her allowance going a certain way. Well, she will learn in time." The girl should learn long before that time, and mothers are not doing well to spare their daughter the trouble of looking after themselves.

"Mother is going to give me an allowance all to myself, and I'm going to buy all my clothes, and I don't like it," said a schoolgirl recently. "She says she will give me the same amount she has always spent on me, so I ought to be able to manage. Now, what am I to do? I have only the haziest idea of how to spend it." This girl spoke the truth, which goes to prove that it was time she was compelled to learn something of the purchasing power of money.

It is hardly fair to the girls to plunge them suddenly into the struggle in that fashion. The right way is to begin at an early age, giving them some sums for charity, for purchasing birthday presents, etc., then gradually increasing the allowance and the scope of the purchases as the girls grow older. Only exceptionally should the allowance be increased, for it is only by having to go without that they will learn how to manage. If they are rescued when they are in a hole they will not learn how to keep out of danger in the future.

Things to Make and to Do

THE gift of a sewing bag for a friend may be embroidered with a wreath of thread, spools and thimbles, the scissors open to represent a bow at top.

A set of pigeonholes made from an old book looked rather rough on the edges, even after being sandpapered and stained, so a strip of passe-partout binding was neatly pasted on uneven edges.

Trays across the ends of a blouse box are convenient to hold ties and collars, and they may be easily made by covering corset boxes with cretonne and fastening them with brass headed tacks.

If your old fashioned trunk has a round top and you want it in your room for a window seat take off the top and have a carpenter adjust a flat one. Then you may fill it up with a cretonne covering and a cushion or two.

Stenciling linen shades in a design to harmonize with the furnishings of a room is a new idea to consider when redecorating the home.

Muslin curtains worn out at the top may be cut down easily to suit length for summer use.

Did you ever try polishing your tan shoes with turpentine? It's fine. Pour a little of the turpentine on a flannel cloth and rub over the shoes, then with a second piece of flannel polish them. The shoes will look like new.

OLD MAID'S HOME.

Some of an old maid's advantages over the bachelor are:

She usually gathers a few household gods about her and makes a cozy nook for herself. If her only home be a small bedroom she gives it an appearance of comfort and homeliness, but the bachelor lives on in a state of discomfort and untidiness, for—

A man can build a temple
With high and spacious dome,
But no man in the world can build
That precious thing called home.

It's Strawberry Time—Try These Recipes

STRAWBERRIES and cream, in spite of the pastoral simplicity of the combination, constitute the foundation for many desserts that might be served at the table of a queen. Merely by piling a few large, luscious berries into a cup of sponge cake and topping them with whipped cream a strawberry charlotte russe is the result. Stiffened with gelatin they become an aristocratic Bavarian cream, and frozen stiff they are a strawberry mousse.

Duchesse charlotte consists of a cup of sponge cake partly filled with frozen cream, then piled to overflowing with crushed berries and whipped cream.

For a strawberry layer cake select a white cake recipe, using pink sugar instead of ordinary granulated or color the dough pink with a little vegetable coloring matter. Flavor with lemon. When done spread between the layers and over the top an icing prepared from powdered sugar and fresh berry juice. Spread strained strawberry pulp sprinkled with lemon juice over the filling before pressing the layers together. This suggestion of a lemon flavor in this cake prevents it from being insipidly sweet, as strawberry cakes are so likely to be.

In drinks, jellies, ices and most cakes a little lemon juice is generally an improvement, accentuating their peculiar flavor.

Lillian Russell, at Fifty, Tells How to Be Beautiful

TO be considered the most beautiful woman in America is the enviable lot of Lillian Russell, the comedy queen.

For thirty years, ever since as a girl she started out on her stage career, Lillian Russell's beauty has been famous. She has been the envy of her not know. "The trouble is," Miss Russell says, "the majority of women won't practice them. They consider them too much trouble."

"Here are my don'ts for women who wish to retain or improve their beauty: 'Don't eat any candy, not even milk chocolate.'

sisters less gifted with good looks. Time has surely dealt kindly with her, for now, in her fiftieth year, she looks more like a woman of thirty."

Her eyes are youthful, sparkling with health and the joy of living; no wrinkles—the dread of all women—mar the perfect contour of her plump cheeks or form a network, the dreaded crow's feet, at the corners of her beautiful eyes, and her form is girl-like in its lines.

According to Miss Russell, there are no beauty secrets that all women do

"Don't take any cold baths. They hurt the complexion."

"Don't worry. It doesn't get you anything but wrinkles."

"Don't sleep too much. Eight hours is enough for any one."

"Don't fall to walk five miles a day. It rests you."

Here's a supplementary rule which Miss Russell laughingly added to the others:

"Never be too honest to use face powder. It isn't even pelted larceny to deceive people as to your looks."

How to Secure Good Servants

FIRST try to remember that servants have feelings as well as yourself. When their work is done give them a word of praise, so that they see that you appreciate their efforts, and see to it that they have time to do their mending and to get out a little for a change of scene. Some mistresses do not realize how dreary the common round of a domestic servant is.

Let your servant observe in your conduct just the qualities and virtues that you would desire they should possess and practice toward you.

Be liberal with food. Housework is a very hungry calling, so don't grudge your servants a share of the various dainties you press upon your family and visitors.

Don't expect your servant to execute half a dozen errands for you when she is out for her own pleasure. She doesn't like it; neither does her sweetheart.

Remember when engaging a maid that you are making a contract. State clearly the duties which you expect her to perform and in this way avoid contention arising afterward from misunderstandings.

Show every kindness to your servant, but from the first be firm in correcting things you dislike. Then she will see that you are mistress and not attempt that undue liberty which later on is so difficult to check.

Give your servant a reasonable stated time "out," and if you will help her to start out in good time you will find that she will more readily come in on time. If it is your fault that she is late going out it is hardly fair to blame her for being late in returning.

Never accept notice from a servant in a huff nor give one notice when you are angry with her. A mistress is often unjust when she is angry. Allow yourself sufficient time to think the matter over calmly before deciding whether notice is to be given or not.

A few kind words and a bit of good advice from a mistress will go ten times further toward making a good maid than all the grumbling in the world. Remember a servant is not a machine, but that she is a human being, with varying moods and failings like her mistress.

GET THE BYZANTINE HIPLESS FIGURE.

Byzantine is the name for the new figure. To be truly Byzantine you must be truly hipless. This means that you must be so well shaped that you can wear the thin, loose clinging stuffs without looking odd in them. You must be so slight that you will sway. At the same time you must be plump in your hands and arms and quite full in the face. You can acquire this only by the right kind of exercise and diet.

For exercise walk long and persistently every day and eat parsley or lettuce with salt on it, not dressing. These greens act as brooms to the stomach. To get the Byzantine figure you must learn the polite art of dressing correctly. To be sure you're properly corseted try the Laundry stunt. Lift your arms high. Open and close your fingers. Bend until your finger tips sweep the floor. Do this with your corsets all laced for the day. If you're puffy or if anything snaps or gives, then you will know that you are not properly dressed.

GIRDLE IS THE THING.

It is reported from Paris that the lingerie frock will be a girdle affair and not by any means a princess.

The girdle is naturally a part of the very simple model, and it was inevitable that it should return sooner or later on the cotton frock which lent itself none too well to the severity and dignity of the princess.

When the long front panel is now used the garment is girdled at the sides.

When last season's cuttrass is retained its upper line is dropped to the region of the waist, leaving it a hip yoke.

SAVING TIME IN THE KITCHEN.

Put rollers under your kitchen table if you want to save yourself steps and time. You can then roll the table near the sink when you are washing dishes, into the pantry when you are making bread and want to be near the flour supply or in front of the china closet when you are giving it a cleaning and want a place for the contents of the shelves while you clean them. A roller table is surprisingly convenient in the kitchen, and all that is necessary is to put rollers on the table you already have.

TO GET RID OF MICE.

Mix up oatmeal or flour into a thick paste with oil of amber and ox gall in equal parts. Make it into little balls and lay them in the middle of the infested apartment, surrounding them with shallow vessels of water. This preparation is occlusive, intolerable to the mice, and the mice will frequently drink until they die on the spot.

MUSINGS OF ELINOR HITE

FEED THE BRUTE.

ONCE upon a time a youthful bride sought the counsel of an experienced matron as to the best way of retaining the love and affection of her husband, and the elder woman replied with epigrammatic terseness, "Feed the brute."

There is far more in this advice than appears on the surface, and it is worth while for every married woman to consider whether it would not pay her to put the precept into practice.

A man, being intended to perform harder work than a woman, is constituted by nature to require more food than she finds sufficient, and whenever the two sexes are placed on rations the doctors have decided that a woman can thrive on only two-thirds of the quantity that is necessary for a man.

Again, the early training has no doubt something to do with it, for most mothers make a distinction in the quantity and nature of the food which they give to their little sons and to their daughters.

In the early days of the world it is said Jacob asked for savory meats that he loved, and male human nature has not altered much since his day except to become more capricious and critical.

There are in man many things lacking which properly constituted woman would like to see supplied and also a great deal which she would be delighted to have eradicated, but there he is, and such as he is we have to make the best of him.

As this is so, surely it is wisest on the part of femininity to keep the "brute" in a good temper, even if by doing so they sacrifice some of their pet theories respecting diet, justice and the rights of the sex instead of holding hard and fast to their opinions, however correct they may be. The latter may only result in driving the man to a club or a restaurant and, still worse, sousing a temper which from business cares and heredity is very far from being angelic as it is. Once again, I advise all women who are suffering from the hundred and one troubles and vexations attendant upon the possession of a dissatisfied man to try the plan of "feeding the brute." It's not new counsel, but it works well every time.

The Always Popular Linen Costume

SUMMER wouldn't be half summer without the linen frock to add femininity sartorially to get through the heated term. The linen dress illustrated is of gray blue in the fashionable hip-sucking weave.

The costume is in one piece as far down as the knees, where it is supplemented by a deep fitted flounce. The sleeves, cut in one with the bodice, are finished with turned back plaited frills of not edged with the linen, and the round neck has a frill of similar character.

PRICKLY HEAT LOTION.

When there are children who suffer from the irritation of prickly heat the nursery should contain a bottle of the following lotion: Carbolic acid, 5 drops; boracic acid, 10 grains; zinc oxide, 15 grains; glycerin, 20 drops; alcohol, 20 drops; water to make 1 ounce.

If this is applied to the most irritated spot during the season of prickly heat it will give a child or adult great relief.

When the irritation is extreme the whole body should be bathed daily with a saturated solution of boracic acid in water, diluted with an equal quantity of water when first used.

5 Day's Menu for Child of Six

THOSE who have charge of the selection of food for children at home or in the school should have some knowledge of the proper proportions of the different kinds of food needed to maintain a child of school age in proper mental and physical condition, says Caroline L. Hunt in her pamphlet "Daily Meals of School Children."

The following day's menu for a child of from six to nine years of age is quoted from Miss Hunt's book:

Breakfast.—Orange of medium size; cooked oatmeal, one-third cup; milk and cream mixed, one-half cup; toast, one slice; butter, one-half cubic inch; milk to drink, one glass.

Dinner.—Whitfish, three ounces as purchased or one and one-half ounces calico portion; potato, one small; celery cooked in milk, three-eighths cupful; bread, one slice; butter for bread and potato, one cubic inch; rice pudding, one-half cupful.

Supper.—Eggs; toast, one slice; butter, one half cubic inch; milk, one glass; prunes, three, cooked with one-half level tablespoonful of sugar; cookies.

Fashion Points for the Smart Girl

SEPARATE braid tunics bid fair to be worn this season on linen suits. The braid is of linen and infrequently made of silk. The design is a narrow latticework. The braid crosses itself in small squares and is tightly knotted at each intersection. Over this work runs a design more or less elaborate, done in heavy padded stitch either of silk or mercerized floss. The effect is not unlike that of the sleeveless coat worn last summer.

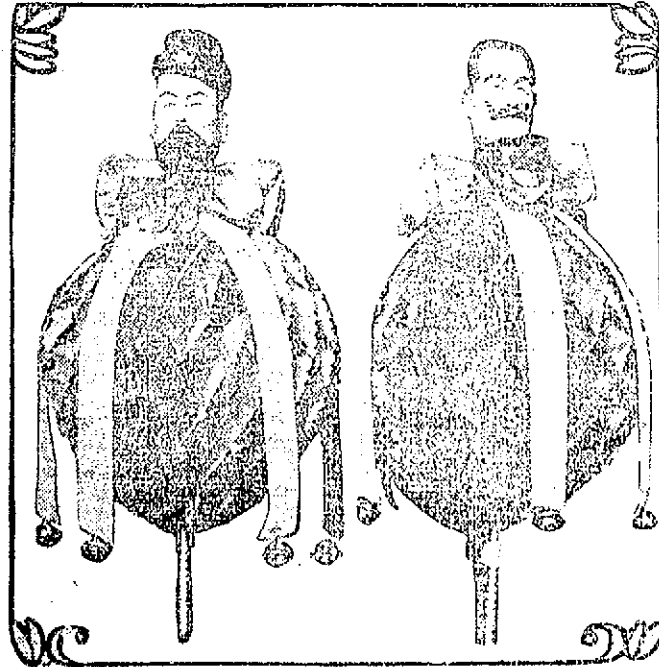

Among the new automobiling coats the smart loose woven tweeds and homespun play an important part. These coats are all strictly tailor made models. Some of the warm tawny yellow or russet tones with big buttons or tortoise shell or mother-of-pearl and linings of changeable messaline are very chic models despite their severity.

A touch of black enters into the trimming of many tub gowns. A French idea in this connection is the introduction of two long vertical slits on the chest or bust and similar slits on the turnback or plain cuffs of three-quarter or elbow sleeves. These slits are buttonholed in the color of the material, and through them wide black ribbons are run. The ribbon is tied in a large smart bow on the blouse front and in small bows on the sleeves. This trimming gives a knowing air to even a plain blouse and skirt.

Underwear of cotton crape is a new fad that will be popular this summer. It is not the crinkly kind that one associates with the name of cotton crape, but a softer fabric. For traveling or for wear in places where laundering facilities are limited such underwear should prove a boon, because neither starch nor ironing is necessary. A garment may be washed, hung to dry and after being well shaken is ready to be worn again.

Parasols handles this summer are a compromise between the very long directoire stick and the short English style. And in all round parasols plain colors are most liked. Bright royal blue is a favorite shade, with bronze green as another choice.

Cotillion Favors

THESE are the latest cotillion favors sent over from Paris. As you will see, royalty has been headed to please French and American pleasure loving people. The favors are made of paper, cut in fanciful designs, with paper machine heads respectively of the emperor of Germany and the czar of all the Russias surrounding the base. The wandlike handles are made of wood wound with pretty colored ribbon finished with long streamers and loops.

ANNUAL REPORT CHIEF KOHLER

Of Board of Charities Ordered a Watch on Not Signed City Officials

The board of charities met last night and attended to a raft of routine business.

At a previous meeting it was voted to instruct the clerk to communicate with last year's chairman and ask her for last year's report with her signature and also to ask Mr. Mayberry for his signature.

The report was prepared by Mr. Mayberry or under his direction last January.

Last night the clerk stated that he had the report but not the signatures desired.

The board voted to have the clerk communicate with Mr. Mayberry and ask him again for his signature or his reasons for not signing it.

Several bills for private work by district physicians were held up pending an investigation by Supt. Conley.

Another bill of $267.55 from Weymouth was held up. This bill should have come on last year's board, in fact the original bill came in last year, so it was said, but it mysteriously disappeared and the bill which was presented last night was its duplicate. There was some discussion about its appearance at this time, and finally it was voted to have Supt. Conley further investigate the case.

When a bill which dated back to 1904 came up Chairman McCarthy took occasion to remark that it was one instance of many where the board cannot tell what to reckon on in advance.

While before the appropriation committee recently the chairman informed the members of the committee that he could not tell definitely and the above instance explained in a way why he couldn't.

On motion of Commissioner Burns it was voted to expend the sum of $54 for medical equipment for the two ambulances.

The cash allowance list was looked over and found to be $2.25 less than last month.

CLEVELAND, O., June 4.—City detectives may be properly employed to watch and report to their chief all public officials and prominent men who enter saloons, cafes or disorderly houses.

This ruling was made yesterday by the chairman of the civil service commission in course of the trial of "Golden Rule," chief of Police Kohler, who is accused of immorality, intoxication and malfeasance in office.

The ruling was made on a charge that Kohler instructed his detectives to make private reports to him of any "officials, prominent business men or any one connected with the city visiting disorderly houses, grill rooms, cafes or saloons."

These reports, it was alleged, were intended by the chief for improper use. Counsel for the defense objected to the testimony on the grounds that the collection of the reports was not an offense and no improper use had been shown. This objection was sustained by the commission.

Other testimony introduced was to the effect that Chief Kohler visited a disorderly house and acted familiarly with the inmates. The witnesses were women of the Red Light district and they testified that they were shocked and insulted by the chief's language.

HE SHOT AT GIRL

Man First Made a Demand For Letters

BOSTON, June 4.—Walking into the store at 19 Cooper street last evening, Ephraim Albert, 24, of 20 Cooper street, drew a revolver and shot at Miss Sarah Goldberg, the 20 year old daughter of the proprietor, the bullet fortunately missing her.

After the shooting Albert walked slowly up the street. He was arrested on the charge of attempting to kill, at his home at 10 o'clock by Officers Murphy and Jacobson of station 1. Albert's parents are at a loss to understand the action.

Miss Goldberg formerly lived in the flat below Albert, and recently announced her engagement to Frank H. Small, said to be a relative of Albert. She emphatically denied that Albert had ever been attentive to her, and said all she knew was that he had come into the store, and with the words, "Give me those letters," had fired the shot.

"I don't believe he was in his right mind," she declared.

FOUND GUILTY

Man Was Accused of Selling Cocaine

BOSTON, June 4.—A jury in the superior criminal court yesterday brought a verdict of guilty in the case of James J. Cramer, a druggist with an establishment on Beach street, who was taken into the detention room and stripped. His breast and arms were found to be dotted with punctures of a hypodermic syringe. State police officers testified to the truth of the charge against Cramer, and jury was instructed to consider Remington's credibility as a witness.

When Remington, who was the government's principal witness, was put on the stand, he denied that Cramer had sold him cocaine. Assistant District Attorney Lavelle had Remington taken into the detention room and stripped. His breast and arms were found to be dotted with punctures of a hypodermic syringe. State police officers testified to the truth of the charge against Cramer, and jury was instructed to consider Remington's credibility as a witness.

When Remington, who was the government's principal witness, was put on the stand, he denied that Cramer had sold him cocaine. Assistant District Attorney Lavelle had Remington taken into the detention room and stripped. His breast and arms were found to be dotted with punctures of a hypodermic syringe. State police officers testified to the truth of the charge against Cramer, and jury was instructed to consider Remington's credibility as a witness.

WOMAN SET FREE

Was Found Not Guilty of Murder

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—Mrs. Dora Elizabeth Dosey was found not guilty last night by the jury which heard the evidence against her on a charge of murdering William J. Erder with arsenic.

In 1895 the acquitted woman was married to Robert L. Downing of Juy. Ill. Dr. Loren B. Dosey was the family physician and attended her four children who died. She was married to Dosey in Burlington, Ia., in August, 1906, after Downing had divorced her. Mrs. Dosey came to St. Louis in April, 1908, at the time she was alleged to have married Erder, who died July 10, 1909.

Miss Kate Erder, a sister, caused her arrest in Columbus, Neb., on Nov. 14 on the charge of poisoning Erder. Grand jury indictments were returned Dec. 17, charging Dr. Dosey and Mrs. Dosey with murder in the first degree. Mrs. Dosey denied giving Erder arsenic and said she was not married to him. She pleaded that Dr. Dosey made her a morphine addict, thus accounting for her conduct.

The charges against Dr. Loren B. Dosey, who was charged jointly with his wife with the murder of Erder, will come up for trial within the next few weeks.

Don't cry, if it's broken. Potentment will put it together again. Demonstration at Colburn's, 63 Market street.

YALE MEN FEAR

Outcome of Game With Princeton

NEW HAVEN, June 4.—Yale passed from preliminary games to the championship basketball series today when the Blue met Princeton on Yale field. There was much trepidation over the outcome among the followers of Yale, owing to the erratic playing of the nine throughout the spring.

Individually the men have shown good form but as a team they have gone down to defeat many times. In games which they were expected to win with ease, and then won some games in surprisingly easy fashion. On the other hand Princeton comes here with the prestige of having twice beaten Harvard and with a good string of victories to make the contest in spirits. The sale of tickets indicates an audience upward of seven thousand.

PRES. GOMPERS

DISCUSSED LABOR LEGISLATION WITH THE DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Forty house democrats had a long conference at the Arlington hotel last night with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Gompers went over with them the position of organized labor with respect to legislation now pending before congress, and impressed upon the congressmen that the demands of labor are not as radical as, in the words of Mr. Gompers, a "hostile press" led the country to believe.

Among the democratic representatives who were called in by Mr. Gompers were John A. Kellher and Andrew J. Peters of Boston, Chaup Clark, the minority leader, was also present.

Mr. Gompers made a lengthy argument dealing especially with the position of labor for industrial legislation and amendments to the Sherman anti-trust act. The congressmen understood Mr. Gompers did not expect the enactment of the anti-injunction bill at the present session of congress.

News that the conference had been held did not become generally known until yesterday afternoon.

HARMONY CAMPERS

The annual trolley ride, social and dancing party of the Harmony Campers was held last night at Bella Grand, the occasion marking the formal opening of that pleasure resort for the season of 1910. There was a good sized attendance, and the affair proved to be a success in every particular. Music for dancing was furnished by the Simplex orchestra.

THE YOUNG MAN THAT CALLS

When the young man calls at your house and asks to look over the gas fixtures you will hear in mind several things:

1. That call is made in your interest.
2. That object is to suggest ways and means of reducing your monthly gas bill.
3. That he will not bore you; that his stay will or should be but a moment.
4. That the inspector knows his business and if everything is all right, he will admit it, for his call is not to disturb you.
5. That the man is not an inspector of the Lowell Gas Light company unless he can show credentials.

INTO WATER

NEW YORK, June 4.—Money cast on the waters returned only in part today to Joseph M. Cosgrave, a salesman who had tried in vain to make a carrying shot from the pier to the departing liner Arabia with a roll of bills tied up in a handkerchief. The money was intended for a relative of Cosgrave's, Miss Mary O'Brien, a passenger on the liner. Cosgrave ran up as the liner was receding and hurled the bundle with all his might toward the young woman who was standing on the first cabin deck. She held out her hands for a catch but the handkerchief opened in midair and the bills fluttered one by one to the river's surface.

They charge that not only have they been deported without cause but they have been subjected to indignities by the immigration officials and their women.

PRESIDENT TAFT

Spoke at the Unveiling of the
Custer Monument

MONROE, Mich., June 4.—President Taft today joined with the people of Michigan in paying tribute to the memory of Major General George Armstrong Custer. He stood beside Mrs. Elizabeth B. Custer, the widow of the Civil war soldier and martyr of the Little Big Horn, as she lugged at the long streamer of cavalry yellow ribbon which released the flags and unveiled the splendid bronze equestrian statue of Custer, which has been erected in this city amid the scenes of his youth. Afterward the president made a brief address in which he gave Custer high credit for his valor and deeds in war. The orator of the occasion was Senator William Alden Smith. Monroe for several days has been the gathering place of veterans of the Custer brigade who were given a position of honor today in the parade which President Taft reviewed. Prior to the Custer ceremonies the president visited St. Mary's college and academy, where he made a little talk to the girl students. As he came to speak three of the girls placed baskets of red, white and blue flowers beside him on the stage.

Sen. Smith, who spoke just before the president, added a tribute to Mr. Taft to his eulogy of Custer. The senator declared that the present occupant of the White House would take rank with the most illustrious of our presidents.

"While you remember Grant, Lincoln, McKinley, the intrepid Roosevelt and others of the illustrious line, our president of today, in character, in breadth of fitness, in determination, patriotism and love of country, is the peer of them all."

While Mr. Roosevelt's name was mentioned there was a ripple of applause which changed to a cheer as the senator's tribute to Mr. Taft was heard.

President Taft spoke extemporaneously. He declared that Custer took rank with the greatest cavalry commanders of the world.

"From Bull Run to Appomattox, in every bloody battle of the army of the Potomac he was the right arm of the commander of the forces as the leader of the cavalry brigade. A brigadier-general at 23, a major-general at 25, he showed in his life that same youth and force that we have noted in most of the great soldiers of the world."

The president declared that the phase of Custer's career, however, which appealed most deeply to him was his share in the Indian wars. "He was one of the 25,000 men composing the regular army whose work we do not fully appreciate as much as I wish we did. The army then and the army of today is one of which the United States may well be proud. I say this merely to note the indebtedness of the country to the army during the opening of the west and to testify to the effectiveness and heroism of George Armstrong Custer in that great battle which continued for a decade, that great war for civilization of which he was the most conspicuous and shining sacrifice."

The president's address, though brief, was delivered with great earnestness and he was frequently interrupted by applause.

Senator Smith, following a eulogy of Custer, closed with a glowing tribute to Mr. Custer.

Senator Julius Caesar Burrows spoke directly after the president finished his address.

"Magnificent in proportion, splendid in execution, the statue is a fitting tribute to the man whom it represents," said the senator. "I do not know what its foundation is, but if it is planted deep in eternal rock it will not be more enduring than his fidelity."

Following Senator Burrows' talk Will Carleton, the Michigan poet, read a poem which he had dedicated to the occasion.

BODY RECOVERED

A Pitiable Scene on Banks of the Concord River

The body of Charles Corr, the Rindge Manual Training school athlete who was drowned in the Concord river last evening, was recovered shortly after five o'clock this morning by Chief of Police Martin Conway of North Billerica and Undertaker John J. O'Connell of this city who dragged the river all night with grappling irons.

The father of the dead boy was present along the river bank throughout the night watching the attempt to recover the body and his grief was most pitiable. The elder Corr has been employed for many years at Harvard college, a man with limited education himself, whose one ambition in life was to see his boy Charles, the oldest of eight children, pass through the gates of Harvard as a student.

The boy was about to graduate from the Rindge school, not only as one of its foremost athletes but as one of its leading scholars and he had passed the entrance examinations to Harvard and in the fall would have entered the college without any conditions attached to his entrance. Thus as the father's fondest hopes were about to be realized death intervened and cut down the promising boy in the blossom of youth.

The body was recovered at Mayberry's bridge and was taken to the warerooms of Undertaker O'Connell in this city to await a view by the medical examiner. A report of the drowning appears in another column.

The body was shipped to Boston this noon by John J. O'Connell, undertaker.

THE BARTLETT-HIGHLAND GAME

ENDS BADLY

The Bartlett-Highland game at the Middlesex Village grounds wound up in a dispute over a decision by the umpire on balls and strikes. With the score 4 to 4 in favor of the Highlanders with two out in the ninth inning and Bartlett at the bat, the umpire called a third strike on Phaneuf who was at bat, closing the game. The Bartletts claimed that Phaneuf had only two strikes on him instead of three and in the excitement Garry who was on third scored and a tie game was declared. The umpire stuck to his decision as to the third strike and a protest was registered by the Bartletts.

BIG AUTO EVENT THE INSURGENTS

Annual Hill Climbing Contest Held Have Put the Nicaraguan Troops to Flight at Worcester Today

WORCESTER, June 4.—Prepared to overcome by almost speed the steeply graded obstacle which has given Dead Horse hill its significant name, the drivers of more than half a hundred automobiles of varying types and high speeds awaited at the foot of the hill today the start of the Worcester Automobile club's fifth annual hill climb.

The event being the only large automobile contest for New England this year, and one of the four hill climbing events which the automobile manufacturers of the country are supporting, gave it greater interest than usual. In fact, except for the Wilkes-Barre, Pa. climb last week, the Dead Horse hill event is the country's greatest. An entry list of nearly three score cars for today's racing ascent of the mile of steeply graded hill road was, perhaps, the best which has ever entered a contest of this kind in America.

Although the record holder of the course, L. F. Baldwin of Providence, who, in a Stanley Steamer, reached the top last year in 54 seconds, was not a competitor today, it was expected that several of the drivers at least would be able to force their cars over the lilly mile at a rate considerably better than a mile a minute. It was known before the race started that several of the drivers in secret practice had made this time.

The car that Baldwin used was sent up the hill today in charge of Fred H. Marshall, the former straightaway speed king.

Other prominent drivers competing in the event included Harry K. Grant, in the Alco car in which he won the last Vanderbilt cup race; Kaleb Bragg, the Cincinnati amateur, who recently defeated Barney Oldfield at the wheel of a Fiat; Stanley Murlin, driving a Houp-Rockwell, the biggest car which has ever competed on the hill, and Robert Burman in a Buick.

The course today was in fine condition. Finishing touches to the week's work of surfacing were made during the forenoon, the hill being closed until 1:30 o'clock, the scheduled time of the contest's start.

Dead Horse hill is one-quarter in Worcester and three-quarters in Leicester. Its steepest grade is about 15 per cent. The hill is nearly straight for the full mile, allowing a clear sprint, but it is so narrow that only one car can ascend at a time. The total rise is about 350 feet.

BLUEFIELDS, Nicaragua, June 4.—Advices received here state that the insurgent forces under General Mena at Yama have defeated and put to flight the government troops commanded by General Chavarria.

Following the withdrawal of the Madriz forces from the immediate vicinity of this city, Gen. Chamorro with 400 men was dispatched to reinforce Gen. Mena. Gen. Chamorro arrived at Yama Thursday morning, and Gen. Mena at once sent a messenger to the government headquarters in the field, offering Chavarria 12 hours in which to surrender or fight. The reply was a dash from the fortified position on a hill close to Yama with the object, it is said, of escaping to the interior.

When Mena learned that the enemy was escaping he sent Gen. Recreo with a strong force to cut off its retreat. An engagement followed and continued for three hours, when the troops of President Madriz became thoroughly demoralized and fled in every direction, leaving their dead and wounded on the field.

On Thursday evening, Thomas P. Moffat, the American consul, issued a proclamation declaring that vessels entering the port of Bluefields must pay customs duties to the government headed by Gen. Estrada, the revolutionary leader. Subsequently the schooner Caye entered the harbor and was not interfered with by the government officials who are in possession of the custom house on Bluefields bluff.

The action of the United States in ruling that the revolutionists may receive custom duties has been received with enthusiasm and is considered a great victory for Gen. Estrada. Its effect is to rob the government of the fruits of its capture of Bluefields bluff and the custom house.

The American decision also destroys the effectiveness of the government's steamers Venus, which is lying off Bluefields.

It is believed that Gen. Mena has by this time surrounded and captured Chavarria's army.

PLAYED TRUANT BOY HAD TO BE CUT FROM TARRED ROOF TRAP

NEW YORK, June 4.—Francis Clery, 8 years old, played truant yesterday and caught himself, sitting on his mother's right on the roof. He stretched himself on his back to watch the clouds sailing overhead and fell asleep. Late yesterday he awoke to find himself stuck fast.

The roof had been freshly covered with tar, and Francis was glued tight—trunk, coat and hair. He could use only his legs and his legs, but he used them so vigorously he summoned help.

It was necessary to cut off the lad's hair and his clothes to free him. His mother ended the day's outing with a spanking.

TEXTILE SCHOOL

Rev. Dr. Hamilton's Address at Yesterday's Exercises

Alexander W. Hamilton, D. D., L.L.D., president of Tufts college, was the principal speaker at the textile school commencement exercises yesterday and his address was omitted in The Sun's report of the proceedings.

Dr. Hamilton gave a brilliant address, one of the kind that furnishes food for future reflection. In part he said:

"I wish to congratulate you on the record you have attained during the past year, and on the record as a school you have made in past years. I had in mind to say that your record is very remarkable, but I am not going to say that, for it is not remarkable. Because of the school you have and the excellent facilities you have it is not remarkable. What such a school as this does cannot be called remarkable. "We are all interested together in the problems of education. The question of the future of this republic must depend very largely on how the future citizens are trained. The future holds more in store for you young men than it could possibly hold if you hadn't had this training. Conditions are socially so complex, developments are so far reaching, demands are so great that we are constantly modifying and re-casting our system of education. Scopes are taken, and they are taken forward all of the time, cause re-adjustment.

Educational Trinity
"I hope none of you who are getting your diplomas feels that he is now through with his progress in his chosen field. If you have everything, every body knew you would be back numbers at the end of a year if you did not continue to study. And there are three points I wish to emphasize to you this afternoon. I will call them the educational trinity."

How to Clean Children's Heads
A child's hair catches the dust, dirt and disease germs that float in the air. This causes dandruff and scalp diseases. Birk's Head Wash is the best thing to clean the child's hair with. It is the only preparation that absolutely removes all dirt and disease germs. It cleans the scalp and makes the hair silky and lustrous. Birk's Head Wash can be used on children with absolute safety, as there is nothing harmful or secret about it. The formula is as follows: Refined Soap, Cough Syrup, Oil, Glycerine, White of Eggs and Salicylic Acid. Every doctor knows there is nothing better than these things for washing the hair and head. Tufts 25c, June 5th.

industrial efficiency. You want to be useful members of society, that society into which you are born, must live and to which you must make your contribution. This world doesn't owe anybody anything, except a fair return for what has been put into it. Now every boy and girl must be taught these things for the ordinary intelligent intercourse of life. No man can live with his fellows unless he can exchange ideas with them. There are a large number of educational opportunities offered. You have here a school where you learn to do one group of things; that is the contribution to society of this school. And there is plenty of room for other schools which will fit men and women for other walks of life.

"Unless we make careful provision for social and industrial efficiency, the United States must, in the course of years, become a second rate nation, one behind the powers of the earth, a place which will not be a desirable one in which to live. The United States has been enjoying and exporting an immense food product put upon the market at less than the cost of production. The time has come when that condition no longer exists. We now must depend very largely on our manufactured products. We have got to exchange them for this world is a small world today. We counted ourselves until a comparatively recent time without home markets. We now find ourselves compelled to go out into the markets of the world and to compete with the nations, with Germany and France and England and Japan, the most dangerous of which is Germany.

"I wonder if you estimate the vast strides which Germany has advanced during the reign of Wilhelm II? The country has advanced marvelously, has grown rich and powerful and thorough. The people of the country are not naturally brighter, nor more industrious nor more moral than are Americans, but because the German is better trained in the production of goods, and as a citizen and as a soldier, he is decidedly the more dangerous man of the two. We do not hear of the Germans emigrating from the fatherland now. Nobody leaves that country now, except the highly trained man, and he goes to the country where his abilities are very easily recognized and paid for.

"Japan is trying to follow Germany in this race and France is coming into it. And the race will go to the trained. And we shall not be in it unless we train our children for it, unless we can train them to produce and sell as the Germans do we cannot compete with them.

Efficient Citizenship
"My second point concerns the capacity of the American for self government; the intellectual ability to understand clearly and to answer correctly. To be an efficient citizen of a great republic requires a great deal more of a man now than in the past. It is the inevitable that democracy—I refer not to the party designated in that manner—should be much more thorough with his progress in his chosen field. The people have governed themselves by representatives. We are now in the midst of a revolution, and the outcome of this will be that the people will govern themselves directly. I am making a prophecy—I will not argue it. The people are going to make laws for themselves, for good or ill. Now the people of this state do not propose that a mayor shall displace them for four years; if they do not like him they will recall him in two. The agitation for a direct election of senators has taken shape and will bear its fruit some day. I don't know whether you know it or not, but we surely are in the throes of a revolution in this country. American citizens, they are in some direct into contact with the working of this nation, must know something about the great questions of the day, and that will necessitate much of earnest training along certain lines.

Personal Life
"My third point concerns the personal life. We must not forget that side of life; it is something more than the making of ourselves a perfect machine. Every man, woman and child in

TENNIS CONTEST

YORK HARBOR, Me., June 4.—In an interview today on the controversy over the preliminary matches between England and America for the Davis lawn tennis cup, Dr. James Dwight, president of the United States National Lawn Tennis association, explained the situation which he said had become somewhat complicated. Dr. Dwight said:

"Australia asked England and the United States to play the preliminaries in Australia. England refused to do this. Thereupon England asked us to play the preliminary in England. We agreed to do so. We found later that we could not do so. We did not think it proper and sportsmanlike to take the chance of winning in England and then forfeiting the challenge match to Australia which country holds the Davis trophy. We desired to be assured of following a winning of the preliminaries in England, if such it turned out by sending a team to Australia. We have not yet seen our way to send a team to England with the assurance of an Australian journey. The length of time taken by the two journeys is such that very few of any of the men who desire to give up. However, we still hope to send a team to Australia."

NIGHT EDITION

PRIMARY ELECTIONS

Were Held Throughout Pennsylvania This Afternoon

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., June 4.—Primary elections will be held throughout Pennsylvania, this afternoon and evening by all political parties for the nomination of candidates for congress, state senate, state house of representatives and for delegates to the state conventions of the several parties. Besides an entire delegation of 32 members of congress, 26 state senators or half of the membership of the senate, an entire new state house of representatives, governor, lieutenant governor, state treasurer and a secretary of internal affairs are also to be elected in November.

The majority of the present members of congress are candidates for re-election and the most of these have very serious opposition for renomination. In the eighth district Irving Wanger, republican, is having considerable opposition, the independents having named William G. Hury principally because Wanger supported Speaker Cannon in his fight against the insurgents. The next legislature will elect a United States senator to succeed Senator Oliver who was elected last year to fill the unexpired term of Philander C. Knox who resigned to become secretary of state. Mr. Oliver will be a candidate for re-election.

TO SUE MEAT PACKERS

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—Atty. Gen. Major said today that he would file a quo warranto suit against certain meat packers as soon as he can prepare the petition, charging them with violation of the anti-trust laws of Missouri. The evidence on which the suit will be based was taken by former Judge Daniel Dillon of St. Louis as special examiner.

GETS A FORTUNE

THE COURT FINDS IN FAVOR OF YOUNG GIRL

NEW YORK, June 4.—Edna Dorothy Killian, fourteen years old, received a verdict from a jury in the circuit court of Hudson county yesterday. She receives the estate of Dr. George C. Grund, amounting to $26,836.25.

The doctor was fifty-two years old and had been a boarder in the home of the Killians for twenty-three years. There was no will, and no written contract as to the inheritance; merely the testimony of witnesses to confirm a verbal contract he had made with the mother of the young girl.

The fortunate girl is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Killian. Killian was formerly water register of Hoboken. About three years ago Grund, who had no relatives in the country, said to Mrs. Killian:

"If you care for me till I die or until you die as you have taken care of me for years I will give what money I have to your daughter."

At the time it was thought Mrs. Killian would be the one to die first. It was known that Grund had a little money. The general belief was that he perhaps had a thousand dollars. In addition to telling the mother of what he would do if she took care of him, Grund told others of the arrangement he had made.

He died a year and a half ago, and, much to the surprise of Hoboken friends, when the public administrator took charge of the estate he found it more than $26,000.

He had found relatives in Germany, to whom he was about to divide in re-cordance with the laws of the state, when the suit was brought in behalf of Miss Killian.

The jury heard the case yesterday, and sustained the claim that Mrs. Killian and Grund had entered into a contract. His remaining in the house until he died was taken as proof that she had fulfilled her part of it, and treated him kindly and cared for him until death.

EXAMINED TRUNKS

NEW YORK, June 4.—In preparation for the hearing on Monday of the four Kenosha, Wis. society women arrested for alleged failure to make sufficient customs declarations yesterday, customs officials today busied themselves in examining the contents of nine trunks belonging to the party, which were seized and sent to the public stores shortly after the women had landed from the Lusitania.

The members of the party are Mrs. C. W. Allen and her daughter, Gertrude, Mrs. C. D. Regier and Miss Ethel Sumner. In the meantime the Wisconsin women are under parole in custody of their counsel.

OLD TIME MINSTREL DEAD
CAMBRIDGE, June 4.—Charles L. Church, an old time minstrel and one of the 13 founders of the cigar makers union, died at the home of his son, George L. Church, in this city today, at the age of 78 years.

Mr. Church was a native of England, coming to Baltimore nearly 60 years ago. With the Christie Minstrel company and the Morris Brothers company he toured this country, taking one of the leading parts in the productions. Mr. Church, who was married twice, leaves five children.

STRIKE OF MINERS

Over 4200 Coal Miners Deserted the Mines of Illinois

CHICAGO, June 4.—Destruction of a great deal of mine property, the owners declare, will follow in the wake of the order issued by the officers of the United Mine Workers of Illinois, calling out on a strike all engineers, firemen, pumpmen and emergency workers.

More than 4200 men deserted the mines and by midnight practically every mine in the state operated by members of the Illinois Coal Operators' association was left unprotected, against water and other agents of destruction. When the engineers and other workers walked out of the mines the operators immediately instructed their mine managers and superintendents to man the pumps. The operators declared they feared the men would be driven away from the mines the moment any work is attempted. In the event of trouble of this kind the operators will apply for a federal injunction against the miners, and an appeal may be made to President Taft to intervene in the same manner President Roosevelt did in the anthracite coal strike. One of the principal demands of the miners is that the operators pay the wages of shot-firers. The operators declare if they were forced to pay wages of shot-firers it would mean an increase in the price of coal at least three cents a ton. About 600 shot-firers are employed at $4.50 a day.

A NOVEL PROGRAM

To Be Given By the Bartlett School Pupils

On Tuesday, June 7, if the weather be suitable or on the next fair afternoon if it be otherwise, the teachers and pupils of the Bartlett school under the direction of Miss Milton H. Milner of the Lowell Normal school, are to give a program of supervised games and organized play on the Normal school grounds on Broadway at 415 p. m. The plan is to show games suitable for everyday use in the school room and yard as well as on the playground. What has been said and written of the value of play when it is properly organized and supervised in preparing children for the responsibilities of later life, together with the accomplishments of other cities in this field, and the money spent on about to be, in our own playgrounds, both in connection with schools and otherwise have convinced those in charge at the Normal school and at the Bartlett school that much may be accomplished in our own schools in this direction. Consequently during the past year, work has been undertaken and pursued with the aim of learning the truth of the assertions of game and playground enthusiasts and of how much value such work would be for us here in Lowell. In the minds of those interested and in touch with this effort there is no longer any doubt as to the value of a restricted amount of play when such is carefully directed, as an aid to recreation both mental and physical and to the right kind of moral training. To demonstrate so far as is possible with the means at hand the truth of the above conclusions and to add others who wish to do something along this line rather than to make any attempt at any exhibition or show is the purpose of the affair to be held next Tuesday. The following will be the program:

Group 1. Kindergarten—Lassie; ponies; rocking horse; pigeons; skipping tag; fishes; barn yard; soldier boy.

Group 2. Grade 1—See-saw; tossing; tiddlywinkle and pollywog; scissors grinder; flying birds; come and skip with me.

Group 3. Grades 2 and 3—Marching: Who stands next? Bean bag games; A. Hunting we will go; Slap Jack; mic exercises; Danish greeting.

Group 4. Grades 4 and 5—Running and skipping to music; Simon says; Pilling and emptying the basket; Bombarding, Boys vs. Girls; Rhythmic exercise, The Shoemakers.

Group 5. Grades 6 and 7—Marching and Swedish; Three Deep; Ball games; Rhythmic exercises; Danish greeting.

Group 6. Grades 8 and 9—Serpentine race, girls; Medicine ball race, boys; Rhythmic exercise; I see you.

Rep. Thomas F. Cuff's Fight Started in the Senate

Bill to Reimburse Cities and Towns Having State Institutions Passed to Second Reading Yesterday—Bill is Being Pushed by Rep. Cuff in Behalf of Tewksbury

The bill to reimburse cities and towns in which the state has public institutions on the valuation of the land owned by the state went to a second reading in the senate yesterday having been previously passed by the house and Rep. "Tommy" Cuff of Lowell and Tewksbury is feeling quite elated thereat.

For years the state has been gathering up farms in the different towns for the purposes of public institutions and as soon as the state got them the towns lost the tax on their valuation.

When a real live man from Lowell went down to Beacon hill in the person of Rep. Thomas Cuff, Mr. Cuff dug up the bill at once and sought the assistance of Rep. Boyle of Northboro, who has a state institution at Southboro in his district.

The two went forth for the passage of the bill, Rep. Cuff shouldering the responsibility. They got the bill through the house and yesterday the senate considered it and passed it to a second reading. The passage of the bill means a substantial annual income to the town of Tewksbury which it has never received before.

TRAINS COLLIDE

SEVERAL CARS TELESKOPED BY FAST EXPRESS

GREAT BARRINGTON, June 4.—Rounding a curve at great speed, about 4.45 o'clock yesterday, the New York-bound New York, New Haven and Hartford express from Pittsfield crashed into the rear of an extra freight that had been stopped about three-quarters of a mile north of the Great Barrington station, and telescoped the last two cars and the engine of the freight. None of the 100 passengers on the express was seriously injured, although all were badly shaken up. Engineer John Blake of the express and his fireman jumped and were only slightly hurt. Baggage-master Charles Gedney of Danbury, Conn., was thrown against a door of the baggage car with great force and received multiple contusions on the chest.

The freight, bound from State Line to New Haven, had been stopped to allow the crew to fix the sides of an open car, from which freight was falling. A trainman was sent back to signal the express but had gone only a few steps when the latter appeared around the turn.

A SLOP-OVER PANEGYRIC

That was a very rampant panegyric that the Rev. John Haynes Holmes delivered at the funeral of the late ex-Mayor Hibbard of Boston. This clergyman represented the deceased as killed by the treachery of his friends, "stabbed in the back" by the friends he had assisted and "rended by the famished dogs" who hungered for the public office he refused to offer. Now, this is all the most arrant nonsense and the author of such stuff "slopped over," as they say, very badly. It is plain to every sensible man that any man who enters the arena of politics must expect to meet reverses, and if he is not prepared to meet them like a man he should never enter politics. Hibbard was defeated as candidate for reelection under the new charter, and the small vote he received indicated that the number of his friends was very small. He was then nominated for collector by Mayor Fitzgerald but was rejected by the civil service commission. For that the friends of the mayor were not to blame. He was rejected, we believe, on the ground that his health was not good, and his death resulting so soon after the rejection proved the accuracy of that decision. He was a weak man politically as well as physically, and the fact that he died of tuberculosis would tend to show that the Rev. Mr. Holmes spoke with far too much positivity in regard to the real cause of death when he openly charged that Hibbard was killed by the treachery of his friends or from being stabbed in the back.

BOGUS MEDICAL DIPLOMAS

Medical societies and boards of health have succeeded in exposing certain bogus medical colleges in Chicago that existed apparently for the purpose of turning out medical diplomas to be distributed on fake examinations and the payment of a monetary consideration.

One of these diploma mills was conducted under the dual title of Chicago Medical University and the Crescent Medical University. The former furnished the graduate with a diploma as doctor of obstetrics while he waits, provided he pays the sum of $40, and the latter distributed diplomas certifying to ample qualification as a pharmacist for the sum of $30. The applicant in either case can take the course by mail so as to make things convenient for all concerned. One of these concerns was detected by the daughter of a physician from the south acting under his directions. By taking the lessons by mail she had no difficulty whatever in securing diplomas on payment of the $70 necessary, so that she now holds a diploma in obstetrics and also a diploma as a pharmacist, although knowing practically nothing of either subject.

It is difficult to estimate the number of such diplomas from these and other fake institutions throughout the country. There should be severe punishment provided for any concern detected in any such business as there is no telling how many lives may be sacrificed through having men with slight medical knowledge go out to practice upon an unsuspecting public. It is a crime that may result in the destruction of numerous lives and should, therefore, have a corresponding penalty.

TO ABOLISH MEMORIAL DAY

Some prominent officials of the Grand Army have expressed the wish that Memorial Day be abolished, claiming that it is not properly respected, that it is made a day of sport and observed more in the spirit of the Fourth of July than of a real Memorial day.

With all due respect to those who entertain such opinions, we believe they are entirely mistaken. Memorial day is observed more generally and more patriotically than it ever was at any previous time. The veterans should be satisfied with the very general decoration of the graves, the general suspension of business, the fact that the memorial exercises are attended by large numbers and that there is never any lack of respect or reverence towards the customs of the day. In fact the day is observed in this state by the general decoration of all graves where the deceased have any surviving friends.

It would be a serious mistake for the veterans to suppose that the young people should shut themselves up in their homes and that whole cities should put on the garb of mourning with the coming of Memorial day each year. It is quite a sufficient observance of the day if the memorial exercises are carried out with due reverence. That is all the veterans can expect.

On Memorial day the sacrifices of the heroes of the Civil war are extolled and the surviving veterans are honored as heroes who risked their lives to save the Union. The cities appropriate money freely for the observance of the day and not only extol the memory of the veterans who have passed away but also honor the survivors of the great conflict who are soon to follow. In such an observance there is enough to show what the patriots have done; there is enough to teach the rising generation impressive lessons of patriotism so that if duty calls in their day they will readily follow the example of the veterans and sacrifice their lives if necessary for the flag. But after the young people have participated in the memorial exercises why should they or even some of the old people be deprived of harmless recreation? Why object to a ball game, to track meets, to cricket games, that do not interfere in any way with the observance of the day?

We are confident that when the last of the veterans of the Civil war shall have passed away the people who are now reproached with lack of reverence on Memorial day will observe the day with as much fervor and as much respect for the memory of the soldier dead as do the surviving veterans today. It is no indication at all of a lack of patriotism that young men will play ball or engage in Marathon runs on Memorial day. We are afraid that the veterans either expect too much unnecessary sacrifices from the youth of the land or else are too sensitive on such matters. They are assuredly mistaken if they think that either with the old or the young there is any lack of appreciation of the inestimable sacrifices of the patriots who served in the Civil war.

LOWELL OPERA HOUSE

With today's performances the current season at the Opera House will be brought to a close and the theatre will be closed for the summer reopening early in August. Four performances will be given today starting at 1.30, 3.7 and 8.50. The Vitaphone picture of King Edward's funeral is providing a picture of more than usual interest and many visit the theatre for the second time to see this really wonderful reproduction of the remarkable gathering of the rulers of the world. The picture will be shown at each performance today as well as the remainder of the excellent program being offered this week. Prices at the Opera House are five and ten cents.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

Today at the Academy of Music the performance will run continuously from 2 to 10 p. m., and every act and picture is a feature of this fine playhouse. Leading the vaudeville are Kelly and Reno, an acrobatic act that is very amusing. Jack Dempsey, the tramp dancer, is a wonder with his feet, and he makes a big hit with the crowds. Claudia Bessette is singing the latest songs in her pleasing manner, and views of the different countries are shown. Continuous show tomorrow, 6 and 10 cents.

EMPIRE THEATRE

Today is the last time the show now playing at the Empire theatre can be seen. Victor Shaker, the boy ventriloquist, still brings repeated applause with his astonishing feats. Massey and Kramer in their little playlet "Rube Playing Possum," especially the clowning of Massey, is a feature of the Sunday there will be given the usual concert. The program of moving pictures has been selected for Sunday only, as have also the illustrated songs. The songs will be sung by Mr. Charles Rogers and Miss May Whitley.

THEATRE VOYONS

The attendance at King Edward's funeral of the crowned heads of Europe adds greatly to the interest of the pictures shown today at the Theatre Voyons, for two excellent views can be had of the entire party of notable mourners. The present king of England, William of Germany, Alfonso of Spain and many others can easily be recognized in the pictures. The military display at the funeral is given full attention in the pictures and without a doubt they are the most important news pictures ever shown. The musical features of the program, including solo by Miss Ida Wilson of the Boston Opera company and duets by James and Lillian Bates, are exceptionally good. Tomorrow the usual good Sunday concert will be given, commencing at one in the afternoon.

LOST HIS LIFE

Chas. Corr, Young Athlete, Drowned in the Concord River

Disappeared While Swimming at Billerica Last Evening — Was a Popular Student of Rindge Manual Training School of Cambridge

Charles J. Corr, aged 18, captain of the Rindge Manual Training School of Cambridge, disappeared while swimming in the Concord river last night while sporting with his fellow oarsmen. The body had not been recovered last night.

Within a week or so he was to have received his diploma from the school, and, according to Superintendent Wood, he was to have been graduated as one of the leading men in his class. The young man was drowned while in swimming. Together with other members of his crew he was enjoying himself at about 8 o'clock in the Concord river at Billerica.

A boat was in use to dive from, and Corr, who, though a rugged boy, was not a strong swimmer, was holding to the stern of this.

His head was seen to disappear below the surface of the river and his hands slipped from the boat. It was thought that he was swimming under water and would soon appear, as the boat was not far from the shore and it was not felt that there was any danger.

The other boys watched to see him rise to the surface. Three minutes passed and then they began to be frightened. Several of the boys, including Edwin Tuttle, who was acting as host to the crew, dived deep into the water, in hope of locating the young captain.

The efforts proved futile and several men made unsuccessful attempts to locate the boy or his body. It was apparent that the young man must be drowned.

The bank of the river was lined with people who had been attracted by the news of the drowning. Boats were launched and men and boys kept diving into the water to locate the boy, but their efforts failed.

A message was sent to the boy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Corr, Maynard place, Mt. Auburn district, Cambridge, and they left for Billerica. Superintendent Wood of the Training school was also notified.

The boys had taken part on Thursday in a race with the crews of the Cambridge Latin, Brookline High and Natick and Greenough schools. They attended school yesterday and immediately after the session went to Billerica to the summer camp of Dr. Tuttle, as the guest of Edwin Tuttle, who is the coxswain of the crew. All during the afternoon they sported about in the vicinity of the school camp.

Shortly before 6 o'clock a swim was proposed and nearly all the boys accepted the proposal and the water was soon well filled with boys. For some time they enjoyed themselves in this way, leaping from the boat, up to the time they were thrown into a panic through the drowning of Corr.

Corr was born in Cambridge, and always lived there. He was graduated at the St. Paul's parochial school, and went from there to the Rindge Manual Training school. He proved a very capable student, although, during the first two years of his course, he did not take part in the athletics of the school, last year he went out as a football candidate and made the school team. He repeated this in the 1909-1910 team, playing tackle very creditably both years.

He was a member of the school crew last year and this year was elected captain, filling the office efficiently. He was one of the most popular boys in the school, and was a regular attendant at the St. Peter's Roman Catholic church, Concord avenue, Cambridge.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT

May Be Made Chairman of Arbitration Court

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt will be tendered the offer of the chairmanship of the international court of arbitration, now being jointly planned by the great powers, as soon as the president has had a chance to confer with him about the matter. His salary will be about $5000 a month.

The offer, it was stated yesterday by high diplomatic authority, will be made by the president personally, who will act as spokesman for the governments interested.

It is known positively that Germany, France, Italy and Japan have signified that Col. Roosevelt is their popular choice for the position. Russia and England are yet to be heard from.

In view of France's consent and her own acceptance of the Rooseveltian peace overtures in 1905, Russia's formal acceptance is taken as a matter of course. Diplomatic circles deny that his Guild hall speech about Egyptian affairs has alienated official British sympathy.

A statement made yesterday is that President Taft's good offices are not official, as the diplomatic details of the joint peace proposals will be worked out through the department of state.

The president will act as a medium for the powers in making the request of Col. Roosevelt to head the arbitration court, because the foreign governments consider him close enough to Mr. Roosevelt to assure his consideration of the offer.

In view of the importance of the planned tribunal, whose cases will surpass in judicial importance those so far tried before any international court, foreign experts are engaged in figuring out the probable pro rata share for each government. They believe that the yearly cost of the court will be about $200,000, to be shared equally among the United States,

England, France, Russia, Germany, Italy, Japan and Austria-Hungary. Nothing has yet been decided as to the share that Turkey, Holland and Belgium will have, although each of these countries will be allowed one judge.

ACCIDENT CASES

THAT WERE TREATED AT THE EMERGENCY HOSPITAL

Fred Fanlan, residing at 320 West Sixth street, while going home to dinner yesterday noon on his bicycle met with a painful accident.

When he reached a point on Bridge street near the corner of Third street he got into a position where he would have to strike a wagon or run into a boy. It is evident that he got excited at the predicament in which he found himself and those who witnessed the accident claim that he first struck the boy and later crashed into the wagon. He was taken to the Emergency hospital where it was found that his injuries were of a minor character.

Charles P. Smith of 16 Branch street, 43 years of age, got a piece of a twig in his left eye, Tuesday, while wandering on the banks of the Concord river, and was unable to get it out with the assistance at hand. It was removed at the Emergency hospital.

William Loherty of 22 Broadway, 22 years of age, cut one of his fingers while at work in the Hamilton mills and had his wound dressed at the hospital.

Robert Culliffe of 8 Rogers street, 26 years of age, slipped and fell while at work in the Mohr Plush company's mill, tearing the ligaments of his right knee. He was treated at the emergency hospital.

THE RAILROAD BILL

Has Been Finally Passed by the United States Senate

WASHINGTON, June 4.—The senate passed the administration railroad bill at 9:55 o'clock last night. It had been under consideration for more than 12 weeks, and practically no other business except appropriation bills were considered in that long period. Only 12 votes, all of those by democrats, were recorded against the bill. The practical unanimity with which the measure was passed, was due to the radical changes made in the measure from the form in which it was drafted by Attorney General Wickham, after numerous conferences at the White House on the subject of amending interstate commerce laws. All of the "insurgents" who opposed main features of the original bill voted for it last night.

The elimination of pooling and merger sections and the adoption of many amendments in the interest of shippers, the progressive republicans claimed to have won a signal victory and most of the democrats expressed themselves as favorable to the large portion of the measure.

Had it not been for the retention of the sections to create a court of commerce, it is likely that the vote for the bill would have been unanimous. Debate ceased at 9:55 o'clock when Senator Elkins, chairman of the interstate commerce committee, moved to take up the bill which was passed by the house and after striking out the body of the measure to substitute the matter agreed upon by the senate. In that form the bill was voted upon with the result that it was passed by a vote of 50 to 12.

No republican voted against the bill and six democrats voted for it. They were Messrs. Chamberlain, Clay, Gore, Paynter, Simmons and Stone.

Just before the voting began, Sen. La Follette, one of the "insurgent" republican leaders, served notice upon the senate that unless the senate conferred made a determined fight for retention amendments procured by progressive republicans and democrats, it could not hope to approve the conference report. Speeches in explanation of their votes were made by Senators Bacon, La Follette, Dooliver, Paynter, Clay, Simmons and Gore and brief remarks were made by others.

The new law will take effect 60 days from the date approved by the president.

The salient features of the railroad bill as it passed the senate may be described as follows:

The bill provides for the creation of a new "court of commerce for the consideration exclusively of appeals from orders of the interstate commerce commission. The court is to consist of five judges, to sit in Washington; their powers are to be co-ordinate with the judges of the federal circuit court, to receive the same pay and emoluments and are to be appointed in the first instance by the president for terms respectively of one, two, three, four and five years. Each as he retires to take up the work of a circuit bench, these and other vacancies to be filled by appointment by the chief justice of the supreme court."

The long and short haul provision of the present interstate commerce law would be amended so as to permit a greater charge for a short haul than for a long haul, only with the consent of the interstate commerce commission. Especial provision is made against a lower rate being fixed for the purpose of destroying water competition.

Railroad companies are required to furnish written statement of rates from one place to another upon the written application of a shipper.

Written reduced to meet water competition must not be restored until after a hearing by the commission to determine whether conditions have changed other than by the elimination of the water competition. Unless set aside by a competent court orders of the commission are to continue in force for two years. The commission also is given authority to investigate the propriety of any new rate, regulation or classification, and pending such hearing a suspension for 10 months of the rate, classification or regulation is provided for. The carrier is required to refund all charges found to be excessive.

Authority is also given the commission to establish through rates and maximum rates over the same, whenever the carriers themselves neglect to do so. This regulation also covers water lines which are connecting carriers.

Shippers are given the right to designate a through route or part of a route over which their property shall be carried. A penalty of $5000 is imposed upon carriers for disclosing any information concerning shipments.

Telegraph and telephone lines are placed under the jurisdiction of the interstate commerce commission. The commission is authorized to determine the reasonableness of rates and a penalty is imposed of from $100 to $500 against granting franchises or passes for transmission of messages. Special night and press report rates are authorized.

The only provision in the bill applicable to other than railroad corporations is the one regulating injunctions by the federal courts which especially the operation of state laws. It is provided that such action shall be taken only when presented to a justice of the supreme court or a circuit judge and heard by three judges, one of whom shall be a supreme court justice, or a circuit court judge.

Prominent Worcester Man Found Guilty

WORCESTER, June 4.—Judson W. Hall, aged 74, a real estate dealer in the Chandler street, and residing at 100 State street, was found guilty in connection with the Worcester girl cases in the superior criminal court yesterday and was sentenced to serve not less than six nor more than eight years in the state prison at Charlestown, one day in solitary confinement.

Trial in the case occupied two days, but it took the jury only 24 minutes to render a verdict of guilty, whereupon Judge Robert P. Raymond of Newton sentenced Hall.

The girls, of whom there were six, were all under the age of 16, and Judge Raymond instructed the jury that it must consider each case separately.

The jury returned a verdict of guilty in each case, and Dist. Atty. George S. Taft then moved for sentence on only one of the two indictments against Hall.

Adolphus Brains and Adolphus Blanchette, each about 16 years of age, had previously pleaded guilty to misconduct with the girls involved in the cases. Owing to their youth they were sentenced to the Concord reformatory. The girls are Kate Doyle, Mabel Hill, Orville Blanchard, Agnes Blanchard, Mildred Amelotte and Elizabeth Fontaine.

The greater part of the session today was taken up by the defense. Hall took the stand in his own behalf, and while he admitted that the girls had made frequent visits to his home on Chandler street and that he gave them money he denied strenuously that he was guilty of any improper conduct. In explanation of his having the girls come to the house he said he was preparing to write a series of articles for the Worcester papers to which he was a frequent contributor, on the actions of the so-called "fatty molasses" and he had the girls come to the house to make research so he could discuss the question with first-hand knowledge.

Several of Hall's tenants testified to his good character.

After Hall was sentenced he gave his watch and all his other jewelry and money to his son in the court room.

KILLED BY CAR

Little One Was Struck While at Play

BOSTON, June 4.—Attracted by the music from a hurdy-gurdy which was playing on the opposite side of the street, 3-year-old Lena Jordan started to cross Causeway street, when she stepped directly in the path of an electric car and was almost instantly killed, shortly after 4 o'clock last night. The fatality was witnessed by hundreds of pedestrians who were on their way to the North station.

Rather than wait for the emergency wagons of the Elevated company nearly 50 men lifted the forward part of the car from the tracks, so that the body of the child might be removed. The little girl was carried to the Massachusetts General hospital where she was given immediate attention. Death was caused by a fracture of the skull.

NEW YORK, June 4.—Confirmation of the report that the Americans would not send a team to England for the preliminary matches for the Davis international lawn tennis cup, came yesterday with the copy of the official bulletin of the English Lawn Tennis association. "I regret probably cannot get team for England."

Dr. Dwight is now in New York, but he could not be reached last night for an explanation of the situation. Members of the executive committee of the United States National Lawn Tennis association expressed surprise at

At the annual meeting of the association here not long ago, it was decided to send a team and the executive committee has taken no official action. Beals C. Wright, M. H. Long and M. E. SPEAKER CANNON

Was Roundly Denounced By Rep. Murdock

ELIZABETH, N. J., June 4.—Representative Murdock of Kansas reported to Speaker Cannon's recent assertion that shooting was too good for the insurgent republicans and that they ought to be hanged as traitors to their party, with a counter-charge last night that the speaker has for years been playing in the dark with Tammany hall. Representative Murdock, who is in the forefront of insurgency, was speaking here last night at a mass meeting held within the shadow of Senator Keane's house to boom the senator's rival. Representative Fowler of this state, for the senator's place when his term expires. In discussing the speaker's recent speech at a banquet in New York, Representative Murdock said, in part:

"For 25 years Speaker Cannon has covered his delinquencies by cunning. He has played in the dark with Tammany. Every heart throb of his is in response to the impulses of an aristocrat. He has blocked the way to light and liberty and he is the anomaly in the history of the democracy."

RAILROAD MEN

To Make an Appeal to President Taft

CHICAGO, June 4.—A direct appeal to President Taft is to be made next Monday by representatives of the Western trunk line association and the 25 western railways that are restrained from increasing freight rates.

At a secret meeting of the railroad officials this plan was suggested and adopted upon the theory that the president is not fully informed as to the situation.

The railroads have begun to renege all round without awaiting a court decision on the issue. Equipment orders are being canceled, improvements curtailed and employees discharged in the face of talk of a record crop in wheat and cotton.

According to a dispatch from Detroit last night details of the conference on Monday have been left to the railroad men and government officials at Washington.

In granting the conference Mr. Taft followed his rule of giving a hearing to all parties to a controversy.

Pres. Ripley of the Atchafalaya and Santa Fe last night said: "We are cutting down our force of employees to as large a degree as we can safely afford. All current expenses are being reduced as far as possible."

F. A. Deland, of the Wabash, said: "Extensive improvements on our system, which we have been contemplating for some time, have been abandoned because of the action which has been taken by the interstate commerce body. The present condition will continue until the issue now the subject of contention is settled."

Pres. Earling of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, has gone to New York for the purpose, it is said, of investigating the proposed budget for the coming fiscal year, with a view to reducing it as far as possible.

Sec. Glenn of the Illinois manufacturing association said yesterday: "The advance in rates, as proposed by the railroad companies, is simply a conspiracy on the part of the railroads to make the shipper pay the interest on $3,000,000,000 worth of stock which has been issued since 1906 and which, according to authentic information, never was paid for."

Mr. Glenn also challenged George Gould to show that the latter owned more than 3 per cent. of the stock in the Wabash and Missouri Pacific railroads.

MAN WAS JEALOUS

He Shot His Wife and Then Attempted Suicide

HYANNIS, June 4.—This quiet town was thrown into a state of excitement last night when it became known there had been an attempted murder and suicide within the village limits some time during the afternoon. The principals in the case are Italians.

The victim of the attempted murder is Mrs. Adorinda Albionette and the suicide is her husband, 27 years old, who was supposed to belong in the village of Burrage, near Plymouth.

It is said that Albionette and his wife have not lived together for about six years and for the greater part of that time Mrs. Albionette has been employed as housekeeper by John Brett, a middle-aged carpenter and a widower, who lived on Camp street, near the outskirts of the village, and who is well known and highly respected.

The facts of the tragedy are not very clear, but it is thought Albionette arrived in Hyannis on the train Thursday night. His presence in town was not noticed yesterday and it is believed that he visited the Brett home shortly after noon, after Mr. Brett had departed from his Monday meal.

When Brett returned to his home for supper last night he found Mrs. Albionette lying unconscious on the kitchen floor with blood flowing from a bullet wound in her head and a short distance away lay her husband dead.

The case is somewhat a mystery, as no one heard any shots, although there must have been three fired. Two of the bullets lodged in the body of Mrs. Albionette while a third entered the head of her husband. The other two chambers of the 32-calibre revolver also contained empty cartridge shells.

Whether or not a struggle occurred in the Brett home is unknown, nor can any reason be advanced for the shooting other than probable jealousy.

One shot entered the woman's head near the ear and the other entered the back about the thorax. Albionette, evidently thinking he had killed his wife, undoubtedly turned the weapon upon himself and fired one shot, which passed through his head, killing him instantly, according to Medical Examiner Milton of Barnstable, who was the first physician called.

Mrs. Albionette was unconscious when medical aid reached her and her condition last night was considered critical. She was unable to make any statement.

State Officer Ernest Bradford is at work on the case.

The Millinery World

Midsummer Creations to Suit Every Woman, Be She a Beauty, Semibeauty or Just Plain

THE question of the hat is the crowning point in the toilet without a doubt in more senses than one, for its suitability often makes or mars the entire appearance, and a good hat—a creation, in a word—often carries off and rises triumphant over an old-fashioned gown. This season we have a choice so catholic that it is difficult to resist the desire to buy "just one more." It would be out of the question to assert that there is no fashion to guide one in the present millinery world, for there are certain traits which draw the broad line between this year's hats and last season's. For instance, whereas the shapes of last season dropped, those of this summer—that is, many of them—come down well over the head, but they have an upward curve at the same time. Rather a contradiction in terms, I admit, but a sartorial fact nevertheless.

The choice in headgear is, as I have said, almost limitless. Still, there are women who aver that they can't find a hat they can wear "without looking rakish in it." To these disgruntled ladies I would say that the lady's hat does exist, the one both stylish and becoming, but it is not easy to find. The hat selection, which ranges from the picturesque and artistic at one end of the scale to what some one recently described as "not beautiful, but stylish," at the other, is quite a long way to stretch, but there are all sorts in between, including those fitting the adjective uppermost in society parlance, "quaint."

One might say that the turban is mistress of the situation for morning wear, and the forms it takes are by no means eccentric. The turbans most favored by the Parisienne are those of soft, plaited straw, generally in two colors, so soft and pliable that they can be deftly crushed into any shape most becoming to the wearer. Usually they give one the impression of a large bouffant crown tied in just above a narrow border which rests on the head. A chow of ribbon, a tuft of flowers or a long winged bird poised very upright well to the front is the sole attempt at ornamentation. There are turbans of straw that swathe the head in rajah fashion, but it is only the exceptional girls who should wear these eccentric and bizarre creations. And unfortunately in the majority of cases it is the very last woman who should take liberties with her appearance who appears in a shape of this kind.

The low set high turban and the hat that turns up directly in front are very trying confections for even the pretty woman. The straight, hard line across the forehead is rarely becoming. The upturned brim pitilessly reveals every defect of feature and complexion, shows every wrinkle, every blemish, every touch of makeup.

If women really understood the merciful influence of a brim shading at least a little of the brow and eyes few would have the audacity to dispense with that aid to beauty, save when for convenience's sake they choose a really small hat.

So much for common sense. Now for what is modish, whether or not it is sensible.

There is no via media with the great modistes this season, no phillandering. It must be either small turbans or very large hats that we are to wear, and the contrast being so decided, it is piquant. With some of the largest shapes the material with which they are covered is so pretty they are left with very little trimming at all—just one fine feather at the left side or a monster rose. Leghorn hats, large and becoming of line, are covered, either the crown or brim, sometimes both, with black or white chantilly lace. Hats, too, of changeable taffeta and leghorn are smart, and blue and pink combinations, which of late have not been thought sophisticated enough for chicness, are assuming considerable importance in midsummer millinery.

Beautiful hats there are with a sweeping brim curving upward at the side toward the back most alluring in line. The soft Italian or tagal straws are crumpled up in front with a chow or a bunch of flowers catching up the brim, a shape that is very becoming to most American faces. Other hats again are covered with flowers, no ribbon or tulle being introduced to vary the scheme. The Louis XVI. hats sharply turned up behind admit of the return of the coiffeur, always a favorite and pretty.

A point to be remembered as to flowers is that the best milliners are leaving the beaten track and going far afield for the blooms they use, choosing such kinds as begonias, beautifully imitated; sweet peas, wood violets and anemones, though the queen of flowers is too firmly established ever to yield place to any lesser blossom. The aftermath of the chandelier is responsible for the late vogue for wings and plumage. They are very unusual adornments for summer millinery, being more associated with demi-season and autumn styles. Surely there can be no woman who cannot find exactly what she wants and what suits her in the ceaseless vagaries of millinery modes.

CATHERINE TALBOT.

A Day's Menu for Child of Six

THOSE who have charge of the selection of food for children at home or in the school should have some knowledge of the proper proportions of the different kinds of food needed to maintain a child of school age in proper mental and physical condition, says Caroline L. Hunt in her pamphlet "Daily Meals of School Children."

The following day's menu for a child of from six to nine years of age is quoted from Miss Hunt's book:

Breakfast—Orange of medium size; cooked oatmeal, one-third cup; milk and cream mixed, one-half cup; toast, one slice; butter, one-half cubic inch; milk to drink, one glass.

Dinner—Whitefish, three ounces as purchased or one and one-half ounces edible portion; potato, one small; celery cooked in milk, three-eighths cupful; bread, one slice; butter for bread and potato, one cubic inch; rice pudding, one-half cupful.

Supper—Eggs; toast, one slice; butter, one half cubic inch; milk, one glass; prunes, three, cooked with one-half level tablespoonful of sugar; cookies.

Fashion Points for the Smart Girl

SEPARATE braided tunics bid fair to be worn this season on linen suits. The braid is of linen and infrequently made of silk. The design is a narrow lattice-work. The braid crosses itself in small squares and is tightly knotted at each intersection. Over this work runs a design more or less elaborate, done in heavy padded stitch either of silk or mercerized floss. The effect is not unlike that of the sleeveless coat worn last summer.

Among the new automobiling coats the smart loose woven tweeds and homespun play an important part. These coats are all strictly tailor made models. Some of the warm tawny yellow or russet tones with big buttons or tortoise shell or mother-of-pearl and linings of changeable messaline are very chic models despite their severity.

A touch of black enters into the trimming of many tub gowns. A French idea in this connection is the introduction of two long vertical slits on the chest or bust and similar slits on the turnback or plain cuffs of three-quarter or elbow sleeves. These slits are buttonholed in the color of the material, and through them wide black ribbons are run. The ribbon is tied in a large smart bow on the blouse front and in small bows on the sleeves. This trimming gives a knowing air to even a plain blouse and skirt.

Underwear of cotton crape is a new fad that will be popular this summer. It is not the crinkly kind that one associates with the name of cotton crape, but a softer fabric. For traveling or for wear in places where laundering facilities are limited such underwear should prove a boon, because neither starch nor ironing is necessary. A garment may be washed, hung to dry and after being well shaken is ready to be worn again.

Parasols handles this summer are a compromise between the very long directoire stick and the short English style. And in all round parasols plain colors are most liked. Bright royal blue is a favorite shade, with bronze green as another choice.

Get Own Allowance

LOTS of girls who have successfully passed a difficult mathematical examination and can tell the exact cost of feeding so many thousand sheep when each one consumes a given quantity of food in half a day are utterly ignorant of the value of money when applied to everyday affairs of life. Why? Generally speaking, because mothers have done everything for them. Mother and father, too, have furnished all the money required for charity, clothing, amusements and what not. The girl is probably not extravagant and does not ask for much, but she has all she wants and has no idea of making a certain sum serve for any particular purpose.

This is not just to the girl herself. She arrives at the age of nineteen perhaps without possessing that knowledge which gives self reliance. There is no exaggeration in this statement. More than one husband has said something to the following effect: "Bless her! She's the dearest wife in the world, but she doesn't know a little bit about making her allowance going a certain way. Well, she will learn in time." The girl should learn long before that time, and mothers are not doing well to spare their daughter the trouble of looking after themselves.

"Mother is going to give me an allowance all to myself, and I'm going to buy all my clothes, and I don't like it," said a schoolgirl recently. "She says she will give me the same amount she has always spent on me, so I ought to be able to manage. Now, what am I to do? I have only the haziest idea of how to spend it." This girl spoke the truth, which goes to prove that it was time she was compelled to learn something of the purchasing power of money.

It is hardly fair to the girls to plunge them suddenly into the struggle in that fashion. The right way is to begin at an early age, giving them some sums for charity, for purchasing birthday presents, etc., then gradually increasing the allowance and the scope of the purchases as the girls grow older. Only exceptionally should the allowance be increased, for it is only by having to go without that they will learn how to manage. If they are rescued when they are in a hole they will not learn how to keep out of danger in the future.

Things to Make and to Do

THE gift of a sewing bag for a friend may be embroidered with a wreath of thread, spools and thimbles, the scissors open to represent a bow at top.

A set of pigeonholes made from an old book looked rather rough on the edges, even after being sandpapered and stained, so a strip of passe-partout binding was neatly pasted on uneven edges.

Trays across the ends of a hipcase box are convenient to hold ties and collars, and they may be easily made by covering corset boxes with cretonne and fastening them with brass headed tacks.

If your old fashioned trunk has a round top and you want it in your room for a window seat take off the top and have a carpenter adjust a flat one. Then you may fill it up with a cretonne covering and a cushion or two.

Stenciling linen shades in a design to harmonize with the furnishings of a room is a new idea to consider when redecorating the home.

Muslin curtains worn out at the top may be cut down easily to sash length for summer use.

Did you ever try polishing your tan shoes with turpentine? It's fine. Pour a little of the turpentine on a flannel cloth and rub over the shoes, then with a second piece of flannel polish them. The shoes will look like new.

OLD MAID'S HOME.

Some of an old maid's advantages over the bachelor are:

She usually gathers a few household things about her and makes a cozy nook for herself. If her only home be a small bedroom she gives it an appearance of comfort and homeliness, but the bachelor lives on in a state of discomfort and untidiness, for—

A man can build a temple.
With high and spacious dome,
But no man in the world can pull
That precious thing called home.

It's Strawberry Time—Try These Recipes

STRAWBERRIES and cream, in spite of the pastoral simplicity of the combination, constitute the foundation for many desserts that might be served at the table of a queen. Merely by piling a few large, luscious berries into a cup of sponge cake and topping them with whipped cream a strawberry Charlotte russe is the result. Stiffened with gelatin they become an aristocratic Bavarian cream, and frozen stiff they are a strawberry mousse.

Duchess Charlotte consists of a cup of sponge cake partly filled with frozen cream, then piled to overflowing with crushed berries and whipped cream.

For a strawberry layer cake select a white cake recipe, using pink sugar instead of ordinary granulated or color the dough pink with a little vegetable coloring matter. Flavor with lemon. When done spread between the layers and over the top an icing prepared from powdered sugar and fresh berry juice. Spread strained strawberry pulp sprinkled with lemon juice over the filling before pressing the layers together. The suggestion of a lemon flavor in this cake prevents it from being insipidly sweet, as strawberry cakes are so likely to be.

In drinks, jellies, ices and most cakes a little lemon juice is generally an improvement, accentuating their peculiar flavor.

Lillian Russell, at Fifty, Tells How to Be Beautiful

TO be considered the most beautiful woman in America is the enviable lot of Lillian Russell, the comedy queen.

For thirty years, ever since as a girl she started out on her stage career, Lillian Russell's beauty has been famous. She has been the envy of her not know. "The trouble is," Miss Russell says, "the majority of women won't practice them. They consider them too much trouble."

"Here are my don'ts for women who wish to retain or improve their beauty: 'Don't eat any candy, not even milk chocolate.'

sisters less gifted with good looks. Time has surely dealt kindly with her, for now, in her fiftieth year, she looks more like a woman of thirty.

Her eyes are youthful, sparkling with health and the joy of living; no wrinkles—the dread of all women—mar the perfect contour of her plump cheeks or form a network, the dreaded crow's feet, at the corners of her beautiful eyes, and her form is girl-like in its lines.

According to Miss Russell, there are no beauty secrets that all women do

"Don't take any cold baths. They hurt the complexion."

"Don't worry. It doesn't get you anything but wrinkles."

"Don't sleep too much. Eight hours is enough for any one."

"Don't fail to walk five miles a day. It rests you."

Here's a supplementary rule which Miss Russell laughingly added to the others:

"Never be too honest to use face powder. It isn't even petty larceny to deceive people as to your looks."

How to Secure Good Servants

FIRST try to remember that servants have feelings as well as yourself. When their work is done give them a word of praise, so that they see that you appreciate their efforts, and see to it that they have time to do their mending and to get out a little for a change of scene. Some mistresses do not realize how dreary the common round of a domestic servant is.

Let your servant observe in your conduct just the qualities and virtues that you would desire they should possess and practice toward you.

Be liberal with food. Housework is a very hungry calling, so don't grudge your servants a share of the various dainties you press upon your family and visitors.

Don't expect your servant to execute half a dozen errands for you when she is out for her own pleasure. She doesn't like it; neither does her sweet heart.

Remember when engaging a maid that you are making a contract. State clearly the duties which you expect her to perform and in this way avoid contention arising afterward from misunderstandings.

Show every kindness to your servant, but from the first be firm in correcting things you dislike. Then she will see that you are mistress and not attempt that undue liberty which later on is so difficult to check.

Give your servant a reasonable stated time "out," and if you will help her to start out in good time you will find that she will more readily come in on time, if it is your fault that she is late going out it is hardly fair to blame her for being late in returning.

Never accept notice from a servant in a huff nor give one notice when you are angry with her. A mistress is often unjust when she is angry. Allow yourself sufficient time to think the matter over calmly before deciding whether notice is to be given or not.

A few kind words and a bit of good advice from a mistress will go ten times further toward making a good maid than all the grumbling in the world. Remember a servant is not a machine, but that she is a human being, with varying moods and fallings like her mistress.

GET THE BYZANTINE HIPLESS FIGURE.

Byzantine is the name for the new figure. To be truly Byzantine you must be truly hipless. This means that you must be so well shaped that you can wear the thin, loose clinging stuffs without looking odd in them. You must be so slight that you will sway. At the same time you must be plump in your hands and arms and quite full in the face. You can acquire this only by the right kind of exercise and diet. For exercise walk long and persistently every day and eat parsley or lettuce with salt on it, not dressing. These greens act as brooms to the stomach. To get the Byzantine figure you must learn the polite art of dressing correctly. To be sure you're properly corseted try the Langtry stunt. Lift your arms high. Open and close your fingers. Bend until your finger tips sweep the floor. Do this with your corsets all laced for the day. If you're puffy or if anything snaps or gives, then you will know that you are not properly dressed.

GIRDLE IS THE THING.

It is reported from Paris that the lingerie frock will be a girde affair and not by any means a princess.

The girde is naturally a part of the very simple model, and it was inevitable that it should return sooner or later on the cotton frock which lent itself none too well to the severity and dignity of the princess.

When the long front panel is now used the garment is girdled at the sides.

When last season's cuirass is retained its upper line is dropped to the region of the waist, leaving it a hip yoke.

SAVING TIME IN THE KITCHEN.

Put rollers under your kitchen table if you want to save yourself steps and time. You can then roll the table near the sink when you are washing dishes, into the pantry when you are making bread and want to be near the flour supply or in front of the china closet when you are giving it a cleaning and want a place for the contents of the shelves while you clean them. A roller table is surprisingly convenient in the kitchen, and all that is necessary is to put rollers on the table you already have.

TO GET RID OF MICE.

Mix up oatmeal or flour into a thick paste with oil of amber and ox gall in equal parts. Make it into little balls and lay them in the middle of the infested apartment, surrounding them with shallow vessels of water. This preparation occasions intolerable thirst, and the mice will frequently drink until they die on the spot.

MUSINGS OF ELINOR HITE

FEED THE BRUTE.

ONCE upon a time a youthful bride sought the counsel of an experienced matron as to the best way of retaining the love and affection of her husband, and the elder woman replied with epigrammatic terseness, "Feed the brute."

There is far more in this advice than appears on the surface, and it is worth while for every married woman to consider whether it would not pay her to put the precept into practice.

A man, being intended to perform harder work than a woman, is constituted by nature to require more food than she finds sufficient, and whenever the two sexes are placed on rations the doctors have decided that a woman can thrive on only two-thirds of the quantity that is necessary for a man.

Again, the early training has no doubt something to do with it, for most mothers make a distinction in the quantity and nature of the food which they give to their little sons and to their daughters.

In the early days of the world it is said Jacob asked for savory meals that he loved, and male human nature has not altered much since his day except to become more capacious and critical. There are in man many things lacking which properly constituted woman would like to see supplied and also a great deal which she would be delighted to have eradicated, but there he is, and such as he we have to make the best of him.

As this is so, surely it is wisest on the part of femininity to keep the "brute" in a good temper, even if by doing so they sacrifice some of their pet theories respecting diet, justice and the rights of the sex instead of holding hard and fast to their opinions, however correct they may be. The latter may only result in driving the man to a club or a restaurant and, still worse, souring a temper which from business cares and heredity is very far from being angelic as it is. Once again, I advise all women who are suffering from the hundred and one troubles and vexations attendant upon the possession of a dissatisfied man to try the plan of "feeding the brute." It's not new counsel, but it works well every time.

The Always Popular Linen Costume

SUMMER wouldn't be half summer without the linen frock to add femininity sartorially to get through the heated term. The linen dress illustrated is of gray blue in the fashionable hopsacking weave.

The costume is in one piece as fast down as the knees, where it is supplied by a deep fitted flounce. The sleeves, cut in one with the bodice, are finished with turned back plaited trim of not edged with the linen, and the round neck has a frill of similar character.

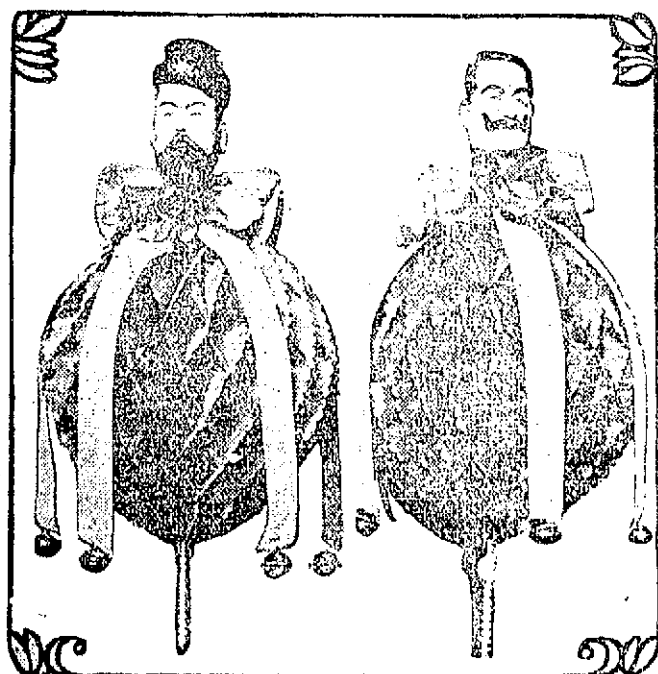

PRICKLY HEAT LOTION.

When there are children who suffer from the irritation of prickly heat the nursery should contain a bottle of the following lotion: Carbolic acid, 1 drop; boric acid, 10 grains; zinc oxide, 15 grains; glycerin, 20 drops; alcohol, 20 drops; water to make 1 ounce.

If this is applied to the most irritated spot during the season of prickly heat it will give a child or adult great relief.

When the irritation is extreme the whole body should be bathed daily with a natural solution of boracic acid in water, diluted with an equal quantity of water when first used.

Cotillion Favors

THESE are the latest cotillion favors sent over from Paris. As you will see, royalty has been benighted to please French and American pleasure loving people. The favors are made of paper, cut in fanciful designs, with paper mache heads respectively of the emperors of Germany and the czar of all the Russias surmounting the base. The wandlike handles are made of wood wound with pretty colored ribbon finished with long streamers and loops.

ANNUAL REPORT CHIEF KOHLER

Of Board of Charities Ordered a Watch on Not Signed City Officials

The board of charities met last night and attended to a raft of routine business.

At a previous meeting it was voted to instruct the clerk to communicate with last year's chairman and ask her for last year's report with her signature and also to ask Mr. Mayberry for his signature.

The report was prepared by Mr. Mayberry or under his direction last January.

Last night the clerk stated that he had the report but did not have the signatures.

The board voted to have the clerk communicate with Mr. Mayberry and ask him again for his signature or his reasons for not signing it.

Several bills for private work by district physicians were held up pending an investigation by Supt. Conley.

Another bill of $27.50 from Weymouth was held up. This bill should have come on last year's board, in fact the original bill came in last year, so it was said, but it mysteriously disappeared and the bill which was presented last night was its duplicate.

There was some discussion about its appearance at this time and finally it was voted to have Supt. Conley further investigate the case.

When a bill which dated back to 1904 came up Chairman McCarthy took occasion to remark that it was one instance of many where the board cannot tell what to reckon on in advance.

While before the appropriation committee recently the chairman informed the members of the committee that he could not tell definitely and the above instance explained in a way why he couldn't.

On motion of Commissioner Burns it was voted to expend the sum of $54 for medical equipment for the two ambulances.

The cash allowance list was looked over and found to be $2.25 less than last month.

Fred Cummings, aged 10 years, and residing at 278 Suffolk street, ran in front of a horse in Suffolk street shortly after 6 o'clock last night and was kicked by the animal. The ambulance was summoned and the boy was removed to the Lowell hospital where upon examination it was found that he was suffering from severe lacerations of the left leg.

KILPATRICK CAPTAIN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 4.—The members of the Yale track team broke training yesterday and at the annual banquet last night John R. Kilpatrick, 1911, of New York city, was elected captain of the team for the coming year. Kilpatrick has been a consistent broad jumper and is a member of the varsity football team and secured a place on the 1910 all-American eleven.

At the university mass meeting last night John V. McDowell, 1911, of New York city, was elected manager of the baseball team for the coming season; Francis F. Randolph, 1911, of Baltimore, was elected manager of the crew, and Leslie Cole, 1911, of Dorchester Centre, Mass., manager of the track team.

CLEVELAND, O., June 4.—City detectives may be properly employed to watch and report in their chief all public officials and prominent men who enter saloons, cafes or disorderly houses.

This ruling was made yesterday by the chairman of the civil service commission in the course of the trial of "Golden Rule." Chief of Police Kohler, who is accused of immorality, intoxication and malfeasance in office.

The ruling was made on a charge that Kohler instructed his detectives to make private reports to him of any "officials, prominent business, men or any one connected with the city visiting disorderly houses, grill rooms, cafes or saloons.

These reports, it was alleged, were intended by the chief for improper use. Counsel for the defense objected to the testimony on the grounds that the collection of the reports was not an offense and no improper use had been shown. This objection was sustained by the commission.

Other testimony introduced was to the effect that Chief Kohler visited a disorderly house and acted familiarly with the inmates. The witnesses were women of the Red Light district and they testified that they were shocked and insulted by the chief's language.

When a bill which dated back to 1904 came up Chairman McCarthy took occasion to remark that it was one instance of many where the board cannot tell what to reckon on in advance.

While before the appropriation committee recently the chairman informed the members of the committee that he could not tell definitely and the above instance explained in a way why he couldn't.

On motion of Commissioner Burns it was voted to expend the sum of $54 for medical equipment for the two ambulances.

The cash allowance list was looked over and found to be $2.25 less than last month.

HE SHOT AT GIRL

Man First Made a Demand For Letters

BOSTON, June 4.—Walking into the store at 19 Cooper street last evening, Ephraim Albert, 24, of 29 Cooper street, drew a revolver and shot at Miss Sarah Goldberg, the 20 year old daughter of the proprietor, the bullet fortunately missing her.

After the shooting Albert walked slowly up the street. He was arrested on the charge of attempting to kill, at his home at 10 o'clock by Officers Murphy and Jacobson of station 1. Albert's parents are at a loss to understand the action.

Miss Goldberg formerly lived in the flat below Albert's apartment. She recently noticed her engagement to Frank H. Small, said to be a relative of Albert. She emphatically denied that Albert had ever been attentive to her, and said all she knew was that he had come into the store, and with the words, "Give me those letters," had fired the shot.

"I don't believe he was in his right mind," she declared.

FOUND GUILTY

Man Was Accused of Selling Cocaine

BOSTON, June 4.—A jury in the superior criminal court yesterday brought a verdict of guilty in the case of James J. Cramer, a druggist with an establishment on Beach street, who was charged with selling cocaine to William R. Remington on Feb. 19. He will be sentenced to the state prison for a term of one year.

When Remington, who was the government's principal witness, was put on the stand, he testified that Cramer had sold him cocaine. Assistant District Attorney Lavelle had Remington taken into the detention room and stripped. His breast and arms were found to be dotted with punctures of a hypodermic syringe. State police officers testified to the truth of the charge against Cramer, and jury was instructed to consider Remington's credibility as a witness.

HELD IN $3000

Men Are Charged With Manslaughter

WESTERLY, R. I., June 4.—John Di Fonti and John and Catherine Cicco, charged with manslaughter in connection with the death of two of the 14 victims of the so-called "wood alcohol whiskey," were found probably guilty yesterday by Judge Oliver H. Williams in the third district court here yesterday. Each was held in $3000 bonds for the grand jury on Wednesday.

Prof. Wm. P. Whitney of Harvard, the principal witness for the prosecution, testified that he found wood alcohol not only in the whiskey which the defendants are alleged to have sold Michael Riley and Daniel T. Sullivan, but also in the stomachs and brains of both men.

AN INDICTMENT

HANDLED DOWN IN BULL COTTON CASES

NEW YORK, June 4.—A sealed indictment was handed down yesterday by the special federal grand jury which at the instance of Attorney General Wickersham, has been investigating the bull cotton movement in this city and New Orleans. When proceedings before the grand jury began, Clark McKircher, in charge of the case for the government, admitted that the complaint alleging violation of the Sherman anti-trust law was against Frank B. Hayne and Wm. P. Brown of New Orleans and others.

THE YOUNG MAN THAT CALLS

When the young man calls at your house and asks to look over the gas fixtures you will hear in mind several things:

1. That call is made in your interest.

2. That object is to suggest ways and means of reducing your monthly gas bill.

3. That he will not bore you; that his stay will or should be but a moment.

4. That the inspector knows his business and if everything is all right, he will admit it, for his call is not to disturb you.

5. That the man is not an inspector of the Lowell Gas Light company unless he can show credentials.

WOMAN SET FREE

Was Found Not Guilty of Murder

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—Mrs. Doris Elizabeth Dosey was found not guilty last night by the jury which heard the evidence against her on a charge of murdering William J. Erdor with arsenic.

In 1905 the acquitted woman was married to Robert L. Downing of Joy, Ill. Dr. Loren B. Dosey was the family physician and attended her four children who died. She was married to Dosey in Burlington, Ia., in August, 1908, after Downing had divorced her.

Mrs. Dosey came to St. Louis in April, 1909, at that time she was alleged to have married Erdor, who died July 10, 1908.

Miss Kate Erdor, a sister, caused her arrest in Columbus, Neb., on Nov. 14 on the charge of poisoning Erdor. Grand jury indictments were returned Dec. 17, charging Dr. Dosey and Mrs. Dosey with murder in the first degree.

Mrs. Dosey denied giving Erdor arsenic and said she was not married to him. She pleaded that Dr. Dosey made her a morphine eater, thus accounting for her conduct.

The charges against Dr. Loren B. Dosey, who was charged jointly with his wife with the murder of Erdor, will come up for trial within the next few weeks.

Don't cry, if it's broken. Polmold will put it together again. Demonstration at Cohurn's, 65 Market street.

YALE MEN FEAR

Outcome of Game With Princeton

NEW HAVEN, June 4.—Yale passed from preliminary games to the championship baseball series today when the Blue met Princeton on Yale field, where the outcome among the followers of Yale, owing to the erratic playing of the nine throughout the spring.

Individually the men have shown good form but as a team they have gone down to defeat many times tied in games which they were expected to win with ease, and then won some games in surprisingly easy fashion. On the other hand Princeton comes here with the prestige of having twice beaten Harvard and with a good string of victories to make the men buoyant in spirits. The sale of tickets indicates an audience upward of seven thousand.

PRES. GOMPERS

DISCUSSED LABOR LEGISLATION WITH THE DEMOCRATS

WASHINGTON, June 4.—Forty house democrats had a long conference at the Arlington hotel last night with Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor. Mr. Gompers went over with them the position of organized labor with respect to legislation now pending before congress, and impressed upon the congressmen that the demands of labor are not as radical as, in the words of Mr. Gompers, a "hostile press" led the country to believe.

Among the democratic representatives who were called in by Mr. Gompers were John A. Koller and Andrew J. Peters of Boston. Champ Clark, the minority leader, was also present.

Mr. Gompers made a lengthy argument dealing especially with the desires of labor for injunction legislation and amendments to the Sherman anti-trust act.

The congressmen did not expect the enactment of the anti-injunction bill at the present session of congress. News that the conference had been held did not become generally known until yesterday afternoon.
